Abductors' Hideout Where Labatt Held Is Found In Ontario

Search For Kidnappers Spurred By Discovery of Cottage at Lake Muskoka, 120 Miles North of Toronto; Reward For Arrests Expected To Be Announced

Action Near Detroit Border May Come

Canadian Press
Bracebridge, Ont., Sept. 6.—The hideout where John S. Labatt, wealthy London, Ont., brewer, was held for three days after being kidnapped on a road near his summer home last month, was revealed to-day by an official high in Toronto police circles.

The spot where Labatt was held captive, his eyes tightly bandaged, is ten miles northwest of this Muskoka town and 120 miles north of Toronto.

Mr. Labatt was abducted August 14 while traveling along a lonely stretch of road between his summer home near Sarnia and London.

HELD IN COTTAGE
"We have known where he was held for some days," said the police official. "There is no doubt about it. We have definitely established the fact John Labatt was held in a summer cottage at a place called Wildwood, on Lake Muskoka. We have interviewed the owner of the cottage, a man named Frowse, and he has given us a description of the man to whom he rented the place."

After Labatt was released he told the police that while held captive he "smelled pines." There are numerous pine trees in the Bracebridge district, which is heavily wooded. Labatt also told police he was driven in a car for five or six hours before being released in Forest Hill village on the outskirts of Toronto, more than sixty hours after the abduction.

Police are said to have found evidence in the cottage pointing clearly to the fact Labatt was held prisoner there. No information was given describing the man who rented the cottage from Frowse.

FIRST NEWS
Disclosure by the police official to-day brought the first authoritative information as to where the millionaire was taken by his captors. It has not been learned officially if any of the demanded ransom of $150,000 was paid, but it was reported frequently that he had paid $50,000 to buy his freedom from Frowse.

On closing day, 27,000 paid admissions compared with 21,750 on closing day last year.

Italy and France Agree to Insist on Versailles Treaty Limits

Associated Press
Rome, Italy, Sept. 6.—Italy and France have reached an accord for common action to prevent the rearmament of Germany, it was stated here to-day by French delegates to the League of Nations.

It was also stated the nations had come to a complete agreement on the question of Austrian independence, and had pledged themselves to take common action against the Nazis.

French sources said another phase of the agreement was that Italy renounced her rearmament policy.

"It was agreed Italy would join France in her fight to keep German armaments at the level prescribed by the Treaty of Versailles. It was pointed out, however, that this was not to be interpreted as a renunciation of an Italian impression that the peace treaty could be revised."

The French delegates said the accord had been reached August 31, and that as a result a trip by Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister, to Rome, was possible. It was said formal announcement of the accord would be made at the end of M. Barthou's conferences at the Italian capital.

DANUBIAN AID
A new declaration of the necessity of aiding the Danubian countries commercially, also was said to have been reached by Italy and France, but the methods of extending such aid were understood still to be open for discussion.

The French, who heretofore felt they could not depend on Italian friendship, now say they are convinced an entente is possible.

Other ticklish questions, such as problems of naval parity, and a conflict of interests in Tunis and Libya, were said to have been left open for self-solution after the re-establishment of a cordial atmosphere.

The accord was said to have been reached after conversations between Premier Mussolini and Ambassador de Chambrun, French envoy to Rome.

Results at Braefoot Seen As Pointing New Way to Suburban Development

What has been accomplished in the subdivision of Ex-Premier Tolmie's Braefoot Estates farm in Saanich just north of the city limits was shown Wednesday afternoon to a gathering of public men who, with Dr. Tolmie, extended an official welcome to the new settlers.

Guests glimpsed the possibilities of a large part of the Saanich Peninsula being divided into small suburban estates.

To the suburb left by glaciation is due the fertility of the Tolmie farm which doubles the productive power and the value of the acreage. J. E. Munro, deputy Minister of Agriculture, explained in a speech in which he dealt with agricultural technicalities and possibilities of the area.

It was recalled during the afternoon that Dr. Tolmie's father had planted the first dahlia on the farm 101 years ago last May. The bulb was brought from Hawaii.

Houses of the new settlers, most of whom are from the prairies, are rising in every part of the estate. Two miles of good roads have been built. Potatoes, pumpkins, melons, onions, squash and corn grown by the agricultural potentialities of the area. One sunflower head measured eighteen inches in diameter. It was explained how the subdivision had been planned on scientific lines with the capacity of the soil carefully studied.

Mayor David Leeming of Victoria deplored the subdivision of much of the land around Victoria city proper into city lots. He said it would have been of far greater value if they had been left as they are.

Senate Committee Given Assurance By President Roosevelt There Will Be No Interference as Big Munitions and Armaments Firms Investigated

Associated Press
Washington, Sept. 6.—The United States Senate munitions committee carried "the assurance of President Roosevelt to-day that there will be no interference with its work."

Backed by this guarantee, the committee turned to evidence. United States concerns did a big business behind the scenes of the Pan-American Conference last winter at Montevideo.

The committee had received word that certain government department and munitions manufacturers' representatives wanted to confer with it about keeping some evidence from open hearings.

Chairman Gerald Nye, Republican, North Dakota, told reporters he would present evidence that United States concerns co-operated with foreign munitions makers in disseminating armament propaganda in Europe.

L. Y. Spear, vice-president of the Electric Boat Company of Connecticut, told the committee its hearings would drive all foreign munitions business from United States to foreign concerns.

YESTERDAY'S TESTIMONY
In the midst of accusations at yesterday's session that "the navy was employed to make South America an 'armed camp,'" L. Y. Spear, who as vice-president of Electric Boat is an official of the concern which dominates world submarine-building, told the committee that "civilization cannot stand" another general war.

Only a few minutes before he had identified a letter intimating bribery by his company's representatives was habitually employed to gain South American business.

Recent activities of the provincial government will be discussed by Premier Pattullo in a resume over a province-wide radio hook-up next Wednesday evening.

Afterwards the Premier will embark on a steamer for Prince Rupert to visit his constituency for the first time since the beginning of the year. He has had to postpone his summer trip several times owing to pressure of government business, but expects to go this time.

The Premier said he had been forced to cancel his plans for a tour of the interior this year.

Mr. Towers is thirty-seven years old. He was born in Montreal, and is a graduate of McGill University. Canada May Not Vote On Russia In League

But Reporters in France Gather Impression From Premier Bennett He Will Not Oppose Soviet Joining As Member at Geneva

Canadian Press
Paris, Sept. 6.—Prime Minister Bennett of Canada left interviewers mystified to-day about the attitude Canada will adopt toward the entry of Russia into the League of Nations, expected to be effected at the Assembly session opening next week.

When he landed at Cherbourg earlier in the day after crossing the Atlantic Premier Bennett cryptically said he could "see no reason to refuse" the entry of the Soviet.

When he arrived here this evening, a newspaper correspondent asked Mr. Bennett for an explanation. "So you will vote in favor of the Soviet entry?" he was asked. "I did not say that," Mr. Bennett replied, and declined to speak further, leaving the impression Canada will take no stand for or against.

AT CHERBOURG
Cherbourg, France, Sept. 6.—There was no reason why entry of Soviet Russia into the League of Nations should be opposed, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada said briefly as he landed to-day from the liner Empress of Britain, en route to Paris, Geneva and London.

Premier Bennett disposed of apparent uncertainty over Canada's attitude in the entry of the Soviet into the League of Nations.

Growing Disorders Accompany Strike at Textile Plants in Numerous Cities of U.S.; Lives Needlessly Sacrificed, Says Textile Institute Head

Talk of Sympathy Strikes Heard

The United States textile strike to-day at a glance, as shown by Associated Press dispatches: Seven were shot dead to-day in strike disorders in South Carolina, making the fatalities of the strike to date total ten. Three were shot in Georgia Wednesday.

Disorders accompanied the activities of flying squadrons of pickets intent on closing mills that have remained open.

Forty-one persons were injured and there were sixty-three arrests. The number of those made idle by the strike rose to-day to more than 360,000.

New York, Sept. 6.—The general executive board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union to-day voted a strike in the cotton garment industry, which is expected to affect 50,000 workers immediately and 125,000 to 175,000 workers eventually.

MILLS CLOSED
New York, Sept. 6.—Arthur G. Besse, president of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers and chairman of the wool code authority, said to-day that "the strike situation is far more serious to-day than yesterday."

"The number of mills closed has increased tremendously," he said. President Roosevelt's appointed textile mediation board will have its first meeting in Washington to-morrow.

RIGHT TO WORK
New York, Sept. 6.—George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, said that "all other questions have been replaced by one paramount issue: ten lives have been needlessly sacrificed in conflict over the inalienable right to work."

"Are the men and women of the country free to work?" Sloan asked in a statement. "Will the constituted authorities permit a lawless group to set up in the face of the law an imperilling life, liberty and property, the freedom of speech and the freedom of the average man and woman since Confederation?"

Propose Control Of Local Milk Market

It was pointed out there was a danger in making a mileage limit to the controlled area, because there was nothing in the marketing act to stop producers outside shipping their milk into the market. This might require a special order-in-council forcing all those selling milk in the area to conform to the regulations. Mr. Whittaker thought.

In discussing the need for application to Ottawa, it was pointed out the provincial jurisdiction was limited in respect of levying tolls, and price adjusting. This power came from Ottawa. It would be necessary to have the marketing scheme approved by both the federal and provincial authorities and they would then dovetail together.

The decision, it was learned after the meeting, will proceed to take a ballot and then submit their plan to Ottawa.

places to fish. In carrying out their assignments the pair, who have enough fishing tackle to fill a small truck, have covered 5,000 miles by airplane as well as a great deal by train, boat and motor car, and have visited all kinds of rivers and lakes where the reports said the fishing was good. Victoria was included in their itinerary but when they failed to show up three weeks ago there was a feeling that they had passed up this city.

On Tuesday morning they breezed into town and wanted to know why there was so much shouting by fishermen about Campbell River. In an instant they got their answer. It came in a stream from the fishing tongue of George L. Warren, publicity commissioner for Victoria, who sensed the chance for some real publicity for the city and island. Before the visitors realized what was happening they were booked to leave Victoria at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and to make sure that no one would deliver them at Campbell River himself.

After a hard drive the party, which included Mr. Ford, Mr. Macbain, Mr. Warren and the writer, reached Campbell River at 10.30 o'clock.

"Now get to bed and your guides will call you at 6 in the morning. Good night," said Mr. Warren.

At the appointed hour next morning, with the streaks of dawn just appearing, the guides arrived and the party was soon afloat.

THE FIGHT IS ON

Ford had hardly got adjusted in his seat when he had a "strike," not a heavy one, but the guide, Ed. Smith, immediately announced it was a fifty-pounder.

Within five minutes Ford had his fish alongside the boat and his guide stood up to apply the gaff. Ford was smiling to himself. He wondered why all the ballyhoo about the Tye. Here he had one alongside in five minutes.

Then with the speed of a bullet the fish was gone. The reel sang. Two hundred yards of line whizzed out in a second or two. Both Ford and Smith were amazed. They looked questioning at each other. They wondered which had given offense to the fish that it should have departed so hurriedly.

Ford soon found out why the Tye is called Canada's greatest game fish. He reeled in cautiously only to have the fish turn and run again.

His peace of mind was further disturbed when his guide solemnly announced in the middle of a run that he would sooner lose his right arm than lose the spoon. The guides have those peculiar habits of embarrassing fishermen at critical moments.

But the fish fought in vain. Ford showed he was a real fisherman and rod could stand. At last the Tye was alongside without a kick left in him. Although it was cool in the water and a Scotch mist was falling, both Ford and his guide were wet from perspiration. The guide was so hot the sweat got in his eyes and he failed to get the gaff home and the Tye was pulled into the boat by hand.

Both wanted a cigarette the minute the fish was in the boat, but it was five minutes before they had their lights, so shaky were their hands.

EVERY KIND OF FISHING

Ford and Macbain are enchanted with the fishing possibilities of Vancouver Island. In addition to the Tye fishing they are sampling the fly fishing in Duncan Bay, one mile north of the river. The coho are providing amazing fights when taken with a fly on light tackle. The visitors also discovered that they could get a trout on a fly inside the said bay and a few miles up the river could get the finest trout fishing anywhere in the world.

"Is there anything you haven't got here asked Ford and Macbain. Warren assured him there was "absolutely nothing."

On the way north the party had a picnic at Port Moody. Mr. Macbain, and the visitors were enchanted with this picturesque character. They soon realized they were in the presence of perhaps the keenest and finest trout fisherman on the continent. He aided them in their quest for information, told them of books to read and referred them to the best areas for fish. He told them of his fishing experiences in Asia, in Europe and on this continent.

"I'm awfully sorry our streams are so low just now," said the genial general. "But if we should get a couple of good days' rain come with me and I will take you over to my cabin on the Fraser River and we'll have some fine fishing. I'll be delighted to take you."

Ford questioned Gen. Money on the difference between the rainbow and the steelhead. The general assured him that a steelhead was a rainbow which had gone into salt water. He said there were only two types of native trout, the rainbow and cutthroat.

Ford and Macbain expect to return to Victoria on Saturday and hope to get a day's fishing at Brentwood.

Mr. Warren, publicity commissioner for Victoria, who sensed the chance for some real publicity for the city and island. Before the visitors realized what was happening they were booked to leave Victoria at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and to make sure that no one would deliver them at Campbell River himself.

SYMPATHY STRIKES DISCUSSED

Since returning to his London home, Mr. Labatt has refused to disclose any details of the abduction, and only police were permitted to enter his guarded home.

EARLY ACTION

London, Ont., Sept. 6.—"Watch tomorrow!"

Police advice to be prepared for developments in the Labatt kidnapping case today from a police official identified with the case, in the first police statement couched in any phrase in a state of controversy to determine whether they should shut down or operate unmolested.

Henry R. Cars, president of Electric Boat, replied with the assertion that "submarines are a defensive weapon."

During the day it developed that United States naval experts attributed the South American armament race in part to the fact that Chile, after the Great War, "upset the balance of power" by buying six submarines and a couple of other fighting craft from Great Britain.

The underwater craft were built originally by the Electric Boat Company, which holds basic patents on submarines that bring in royalties from most of the nations of the world.

Much was said of one Luis Aubry, a Peruvian. He was pictured as a resourceful agent for Electric Boat in Peru, and as later having enlarged his field to include all South America.

JAPAN GOT DESIGN

Washington, Sept. 6.—Evidence the British government had given Japan the design for the "K" type of submarine was presented to day to the United States Senate munitions inquiry committee.

Senator Henry R. Cars, president of the Electric Boat Company of New London, Conn., to L. Y. Spear, a vice-president, said it seemed as though Vickers has double-crossed us in Japan in not having the contract executed by Mitsubishi, which I sent them in 1916 and which provided for a royalty of 10 per cent of the gross price.

"I know they have given you an explanation the British government had given the plans of the 'K' boats to Japan and therefore Mitsubishi did not think it necessary to go forward with the contract."

Vickers Ltd. is a British concern with which Electric Boat has a working agreement. Mitsubishi was a Japanese shipbuilding firm. The letters were written in 1926.

CONFERENCE MENTIONED

Other testimony showed Electric Boat had vetoed a suggestion that its Paris representative attend the London Naval Conference and that an offer to pay $12,000 to the Turkish minister of defence had been made in 1924 if Electric Boat received a contract to build a submarine for Turkey.

Salik of a dispute between the Electric Boat Company of New London, Conn., and Vickers Ltd., with which it had a trading agreement, over Spanish business several years ago developed that Sir Charles Craven, a Vickers official, had been made a member of a Spanish naval construction firm.

Correspondence disclosed that efforts still were being made to obtain submarine contracts from Spain as late as March of this year.

Senator Clark, Missouri Democrat, accused officials of Electric Boat of making a fake contract in 1916 to avoid the neutrality laws and get four boats to Italy. Testimony disclosed the boats were built in Canada.

Clark said the State Department had disapproved construction of the boats for Italy because it was a belligerent nation in the Great War.

Yesterday's hearing also brought out testimony that the boat company, allied with the giant British armament house of Vickers, had used the influence of United States naval missions to Brazil and Peru in an effort to sell submarines and other armaments at a substantial profit. There were charges, too, that traditional animosities of Latin-American countries had been played on to this same end.

Senator Homer Bone, Washington Democrat, charged that the Electric Boat activities in Latin-America, and particularly in Peru, had helped in making South America and the world an "armed camp."

Another death was that of Mrs. John Thomas MacLeod, sixty-five, for many years a resident of Toronto and a daughter of a well-known Huron County, Ont., pioneering family.

GERMANY STATED
PEACE LEADER

Hitler Addresses Nazi Party
Convention at Nuremberg,
Bavaria

Associated Press
Nuremberg, Germany, Sept. 6.—Germany was described as a leader in peace by Adolf Hitler, German dictator, at a Nazi cultural meeting here yesterday.

He told members of the Nazi Party, assembled here in convention, that the catastrophes among humanity were as milestones in the history of the universe.

He said the French revolution was the first elementary outbreak of unrest which "shattered the nearly 1,000-year-old order of society to its inner foundation."

Der Fuehrer explained it was in the progress of the world, through the genius of inventors and explorers, that new political conceptions had descended like an avalanche on humanity, and that the conceptions began with Liberalism and ended with Communism.

Hitler then referred to the Jews. "Jewish intellectualism, penetrating Europe, resulted in a completely inconsistent attitude toward cultural problems," he declared.

JEANS URGES
MORE SCIENCE

No Escape Through Less
Science, British Association
Is Told

Aberdeen, Sept. 6.—Through more science, rather than less, lay man's opportunity to escape from dangers of war and to secure relief from depression, Sir James Jeans said yesterday evening in his presidential address, inaugurating the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

"If science has made the attack more deadly in war, it has also made the defence more efficient in the long run. It shows us partially in the age-long race between weapons of attack and defence," he said.

The tragedy, he argued, was that "scientific knowledge is transmitted from one generation to another, while acquired characteristics are not," so that in knowledge each generation stood on the shoulders of its predecessor, while in respect of human nature both stood on the same ground.

These are hard facts which we cannot hope to alter," he said, "and which we may as well admit—may wreck civilization. If there is an avenue of escape, it does not, as I see it, lie in the direction of less science, but of more science."

SCIENCE AND CLASSICS
Science was a living subject which would assuredly be the basis of all good education in the future, the opinion of H. R. Tizard, rector of the Imperial College of Science and Technology, Professor Tizard's address was made in the educational science section of the British Association.

Pointing to the great strides of scientific education and the practical achievements of science in the last twenty-five years, Professor Tizard said: "I cannot imagine the classics being taught in 400 years' time, and I cannot imagine the time science will not be taught. A young child is naturally scientifically minded; he makes experiments, he wants to know why."

Professor Tizard said no scientific man desired to see scientific education pushed to the neglect of literary studies, all recognized a properly balanced diet for the mind was as important as for the body. He stressed his view that science, well taught, could supply all that was best in the classical tradition.

Over-supply of scientific specialists and the difficulty of employment created thereby was treated in the course of the address. The tendency of schools to concentrate their advanced teaching and high standards of examination on scientific subjects to the detriment of subjects of a more general character was deplored by Professor Tizard. He urged less specialization in the schools, and that "an effort should be made to provide for men who have no desire to become specialists, but who wish to study the broad principles and applications of science, for their own education, and as the best preparation for after-life in many spheres of human activity."

U.S. ALUMINUM
STRIKE ENDED

Associated Press
Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 6.—The month-long aluminum strike was declared ended early today and the 8,700 workers will return to their jobs in six plants of the Aluminum Company of America Friday morning.

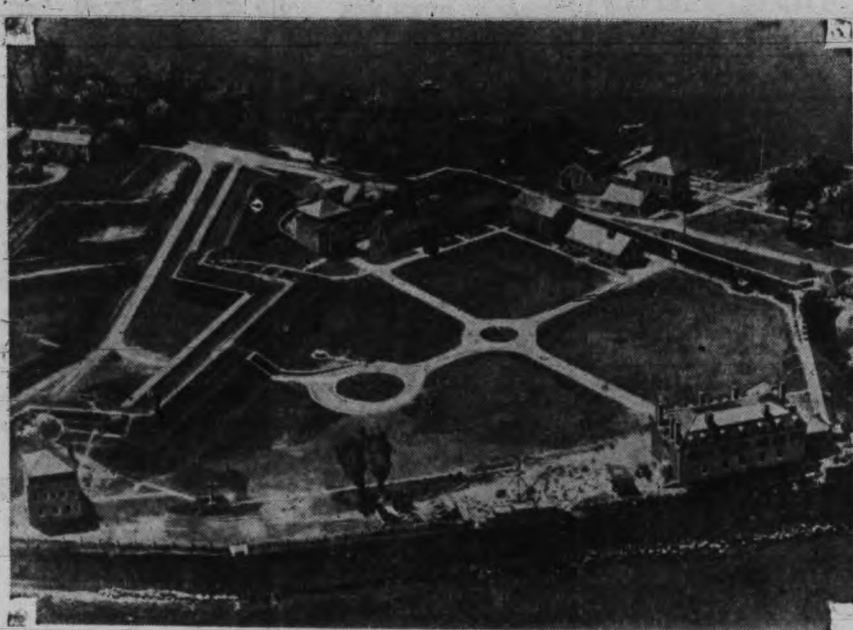

Fred Keightley, veteran conciliator of the federal labor department, emerged from a conference between company officials and union representatives with the brief announcement:

"A settlement has been reached that will be out in final form at once. Operations will be resumed as far as possible Friday morning, September 7."

Keightley refused to add to this.

EPIDEMIC IN POLAND
Warsaw, Sept. 6.—(Canadian Press from Havas).—An epidemic of scarlet fever and typhoid was reported today to be spreading throughout the Luga district. Ten deaths have been recorded since the week-end.

OLD FORT NIAGARA FULLY RESTORED

After seven years of labor and an expenditure of $300,000, Old Fort Niagara has been restored and will be dedicated on September 3, the dedication to be followed by a three-day celebration with dramatic re-enactment by stirring events from its three centuries of history under three flags, Britain, France, Canada and the United States will participate. The above air view shows the Old Fort from the Lake Ontario side. Left to right, in foreground, British blockhouse, Millet Cross, Lombardy Poplars, Rush-Bagot memorial and old French castle. Along the wall at right, British Hot-shot oven, artificer's cabin. French powder magazine, French barracks and British blockhouse; beyond the barracks may be seen the Dauphin battery covering the Porte des cinq Nations (behind blockhouse).

FRANCE WANTS
SAAR MONEY

Say Germany Must Pay For Mines If Saar Votes For Reich Control

Associated Press
Paris, Sept. 6.—France, conceding the Saar Valley may vote to become a part of Germany, has suggested Germany start figuring now how to pay for $100,000,000 worth of French mining properties in the territory.

In a note to the League of Nations yesterday France asked that the league avert trouble after the Saar plebiscite next January by having Germany make proposals relative to payment for the French holdings.

France intends to collect "in gold" she said pointedly in a memorandum to Geneva.

The mines were turned over to France by the Treaty of Versailles as compensation for French mines destroyed by German armies in the Great War. It was stipulated that, in the event the Saar becomes a part of Germany, the Reich must pay for the properties.

France asked that terms of the settlement be considered at once.

DYNAMITE FOUND IN CITY'S HEART

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Sept. 6.—In the heart of the city's residential section at Vermont Avenue and West Adams, where many of the city's wealthiest residents maintain homes, police yesterday found eight tons of stolen dynamite, an explosion of which would have been sufficient to wreck an area a mile square.

Police said they located the explosives through a tip from underworld sources.

The wide search for the dynamite by officers, however, was not completed as there still remained an additional ton to be accounted for.

The explosive was stolen from a Newhall powder magazine.

THIS BANK CLERK
HAS PENTHOUSE

New York, Sept. 5.—It is an incredible city. Up in the Bronx is a thirty-two dollar a week bank clerk living in a penthouse with a view of the city. He and his red-headed young wife call the terrace a porch and it is badly in need of painting, but the fact remains that it is what Sutton Place means by terrace. The landlady refers to the penthouse as her "little apartment," too, but all the same, there it is, a penthouse for a clerk, with its sloping ceilings and its small quaint windows. Besides the terrace, there are green trees to look at and a robin to wake you up every morning and gold and peach colored sunsets most nights. People do hang out washlines in the yards around, but as the practical little wife said, "After all, they do have to get their clothes clean." And the bank clerk eats all his meals out on the terrace and feels like an Astor.

Blackwell, for six years manager of the Union Stockyards of Saskatoon Limited, and previous to his residence here for twenty years connected with the C.P.R. stockyards at Moose Jaw and Winnipeg, died Tuesday in Vancouver, a victim of heart disease, according to a dispatch received here.

Mr. Blackwell was on extended leave to Vancouver, where his parents and one brother live. He leaves a widow and two young daughters.

PRAIRIE WOMAN
INJURED BY PIG

Associated Press
Bruno, Sask., Sept. 6.—Attacked by a sow which she was attempting to drive into a barn, yesterday, Mrs. George Gesling, fifty mother of seven children, is a serious woman here. The pig attacked the woman by seizing an ankle and dragging her to the ground. It then chewed her arm and legs and her side, with the result that twelve stitches had to be made to close the wounds.

MONTREAL STRIKE
TOTAL INCREASES

Canadian Press
Montreal, Sept. 6.—Unrest among Montreal factory workers has spread to the bedding industry. Some 130 employees of the Dominion Bedding Company, members of the Furniture and Woodworkers' Industrial Union, yesterday joined the garment workers and capmakers already on strike.

The walkout of the bedding workers was called because three employees of the company had been dismissed for joining the union, Henry Seigel, organizer, announced.

Unless conferences between employers and union officials resulted satisfactorily, Seigel said, 900 more workers would walk out.

The workers are also attempting to settle general wage disputes, and are demanding improved working conditions before they return to their tables.

No new developments occurred in the strike of women's garment workers as strikers continued to picket factories peacefully.

Verdict on Death
Of Russ Columbo

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Sept. 6.—The death Sunday of Russ Columbo, crooner and actor, by a bullet from an ancient dueling pistol, was declared an accident yesterday by the coroner's jury, which exonerated Lanning Brown Jr., Hollywood photographer and friend of the actor, who fired the shot.

U.S. TREASURY
MEN RESIGN

Associated Press
Washington, Sept. 6.—Resignations of W. B. Stark, chief of the United States Treasury division of financial and economic research, and of E. G. Bennett, director of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, were announced yesterday, bringing to four the total government financial posts to be abandoned within a week.

They followed closely on the resignation of Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, and P. W. Lowery, assistant director.

HUEY LONG'S
HOME SHOT AT

More Incidents in Struggle
Between New Orleans
Senator and Mayor

Associated Press
New Orleans, La., Sept. 6.—Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley was pictured before U.S. Senator Huey P. Long's legislative investigating committee yesterday as a "strong-arm" dictator of New Orleans through his police force.

A witness before the committee, which is investigating charges of asserted "vice and corruption" in the city government, testified that a woman who appeared before the committee Saturday had been arrested by Walmesley's police, given the "third degree" and compelled to retract her testimony.

"This gang cannot bluff anybody out of here," Senator Long, thundered after the committee had moved to take "necessary action" to protect its witnesses.

The committee held morning and afternoon sessions yesterday on the eighteenth floor of a downtown skyscraper.

There was some commotion up-to-date yesterday morning about considerable shooting near Senator Long's palatial home.

Sensor Long said he was informed it was firecrackers children were shooting to celebrate "Walmesley's early trip to China."

FIVE BULLETS FIRED
Police said five pistol bullets had been fired at the front of the Long residence.

Sensor Long said he was not even home, but a neighbor reported the Senator had leaned out of a window to yell: "What the — is going on down there?" before disappearing quickly.

Mayor Walmesley commented that "if anyone shot at Huey Long's house he had done it himself."

"If they did have any shooting," the mayor added, "Long certainly would not have stuck his red nose out of any window; he would have been hiding under the bed. He had some sense, excuse for making an army camp out of his front lawn."

National guardsmen have been guarding the residence since Senator Long rode into New Orleans at the head of the troops last week.

SALVATION ARMY
CHANGES SEEN

Canadian Press from Havas
Birmingham, Eng., Sept. 6.—The Salvation Army is hardening into a bureaucracy, St. John Irvine, playwright and critic, told the Modern Churchmen's Conference here yesterday.

"The vital spirit which animated the founder has been lost in an enormously efficient administration which has turned from an evangelistic society into a sort of superior charity organization," Irvine said.

Fossil Discovery
Made in Wyoming

Associated Press
New York, Sept. 6.—Discovery of an apparently hitherto unknown prehistoric monster—weighing about 30,000 pounds, with a one-ounce brain—was reported yesterday by the American Museum of Natural History.

Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, acting director, said the discovery was made by an expedition led by Dr. Barnum Brown which is excavating skeletons of prehistoric beasts in the Big Horn Mountains in Wyoming.

Dr. Brown reported "one of the choice specimens is a skull ten inches in length, connected to a long, slender neck. It appears to be a barosaurus-like creature and without doubt is the first of its kind to be discovered."

SCOLLARD CASE
CHARGE MADE

Mrs. Reese Brown Accused in Seattle Court of Stealing $5,000,000

Associated Press
Seattle, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Sadie R. Brown, widow of Reese J. Brown, a mysterious business adviser of the eccentric and wealthy Mrs. Sarah E. Smith-Scollard, was accused in open court here yesterday of having stolen $5,000,000 from the estate of Mrs. Smith-Scollard.

The charge was made by Attorney George H. Rummens at a probate hearing in superior court. Rummens, representing Denton G. Burdick, lawyer for Mrs. Smith-Scollard's sister, who had cited Mrs. Brown to appear for cross-examination about the dead woman's missing fortune, accused Mrs. Brown of taking the property when he answered an objection by her attorney to introduction of one of Brown's letters.

"There is the charge of the suppression of $5,000,000 worth of property by this witness," Rummens told the court. "You cannot prove fraud by a single act. I charge in open court that she is guilty of stealing this property and we are therefore entitled to the letter for what information it may contain."

PROTEST MADE
A. J. Falkner, counsel for Mrs. Brown, protested the accusation. "She has not stolen a cent," he said. "The only purpose of this line of examination is to pursue a scandalous lead which has no bearing on any property right."

The letter, however, was admitted to evidence. A copy of a letter Brown wrote in 1930 to Fred W. Sheppard of Richmond, Va., in which he said he was sending "a bunch of yellow and green babies valued at about $110,000," and instructing Sheppard to purchase certain Virginia road bonds and send them to Miss Grace Summers at Jackson, Miss.

Other letters produced by Mrs. Brown showed Miss Summers had been in Brown's employ fourteen years had received a salary of $1,000 a month, carried keys to his safe deposit boxes and had blanket authority to dismiss anyone in his employ.

Hailsham May Be Minister of War
Canadian Press from Havas
London, Sept. 6.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald may reshuffle his cabinet on his return from his Canadian Newfoundland visit, according to political circles.

The London Morning Post said Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, might accept another position and be replaced by Lord Hailsham, Minister of War.

This, it was said, would facilitate a policy of close co-operation with France.

MR. BENNETT AND RUSSIA

ON HIS ARRIVAL AT CHERBOURG
To-day, Premier Bennett very properly told newspapermen that there was no reason at all why Soviet Russia should be denied admission to the League of Nations, thus disposing of the suggestion made by The London Evening Standard yesterday that Canada might oppose her application.

It would be a foolish thing, of course, for this country to take such an attitude. Much has been said about the unfortified frontier which separates the Dominion from the United States. It can not be repeated too often. It is a condition which stands out in striking relief as an object lesson to the rest of the world. Mr. Bennett, therefore, would be serving his country well and making a definite contribution to the cause of peace were he at Geneva to advocate the unanimous acceptance of Soviet Russia into membership. Unfortunately, Switzerland, made up of three nationalities—French, German, and Italian—has decided that her four million people do not want Soviet Russia to be admitted to the League. This is an extraordinary attitude to take; and what good can it serve?

Mr. Bennett can serve Canada well by sponsoring Soviet Russia's application for membership on economic grounds. This Dominion requires all the business it can get; but the government of which Mr. Bennett is the head, for some reason, seems to think that to trade with Russia is something unholy. Yet Great Britain has made her own agreement with Moscow and does not consider herself an outcast in the diplomatic or economic realm. She recognizes that the manner in which Russia governs herself is Russia's own business, that the main thing to look after is business which will give more employment to British workers. That is the stand which Canada ought to take. The United States, after seventeen years, has resumed diplomatic and economic relations with Russia, hoping to get a substantial amount of the orders which Russia is ready to place in the next few years. But there is a snag on the debt question.

The stalemate which has held up Soviet-American negotiations for settlement of old debts and claims continues unbroken. So far, no very definite details about it have been made public; all that can be ascertained is that the two nations are finding it impossible to come to an agreement—and until they do, the hoped-for revival of Russian-American trade can not begin.

Some of the debt is accounted for by loans made to the ill-fated Kerensky government, just before the Bolshevik revolution. The rest is made up of private claims for property lost or destroyed during the upheaval. It is worth considering, says one United States publicist, "whether the United States would not be wise to adopt an exceedingly lenient attitude in connection with these claims. If Russia is prepared to buy heavily from American manufacturers once a debt settlement is reached, we may be losing more than we gain by holding out for a full settlement."

Meanwhile, the commodities which the United States would like to sell to Soviet Russia can be furnished by Canada; and this is where Mr. Bennett's chance comes in at Geneva.

"HORN OF PLENTY" COMES

trophy, emblematic of the district agricultural championship of British Columbia, is this week crossing to Victoria and the Island for the first time. The trophy has been won at the Vancouver Exhibition by the Victoria district exhibit, in open competition with the exhibits of the chief agricultural districts of the province.

The victory is timely, as it comes just when there is a recrudescence of interest in the agricultural possibilities of small holdings on the southern part of this Island. It will give to the new settlers, now coming in, confidence that they have chosen wisely, and stimulate interest on the part of many who are considering settling down to a suburban life in the mild climate of the coast. The advertising value of the successful exhibit for the district may be realized from the fact that some 300,000 persons attended the Vancouver Exhibition.

To Mr. John Naysmith of the Victoria Horticultural Society and his two sons goes the credit for the gathering and arranging of the display. They have done good service to this community. The fact that their victory marks the first occasion on which the trophy has left the lower mainland must be doubly satisfying to them.

AIRCRAFT AND ITS USE

EXHIBITIONS IN THE AIR SUCH AS those which were given at Hendon in England recently remind one of the jubilation of a child playing with a fine new toy whose full use he has not quite discovered. That, as a matter of fact, is what modern aviation itself is like. Air shows simply bring its chief characteristics into focus.

These planes are masterpieces of skillful design and construction. The short, stubby racers, the graceful gliders, the sturdy, broad-winged transport planes, the grimly beautiful machines of the military services—these are artistic creations, in a very real sense, supremely fitted for what they are supposed to do.

The men who fly them likewise are artists. They have taken a brand-new craft, made their own precedents, and developed their own skill. In so far as an incalculable element like the air can be mastered, they have mastered it. And yet, when all this is admitted, there remains the fact that we are still a little bit foggy about the uses to which we shall put these fine planes and the men who fly them.

We have here an instrument which is completing the job of shrinking the world down to pocket size—a job that began when men discovered the principles of clipper ship construction, continued with the steamship and railroad train, went still farther with the telegraph and telephone, and came down to date with the automobile and the wireless.

But while we have set up far-flung transport lines, and used the airplane to bring remote spots in the Arctic and the tropic closer to civilization, we spend too much of our energy in developing the plane as a war machine.

An invention which brings all nations closer together has served chiefly to make war far more horrible than it ever was before. Instead of increasing our neighborliness it has increased our fears and suspicions. It has even made us accept the fact that in future wars we shall visit death on women and children, and not just on fighting men.

All this, of course, is in no sense the fault of the men who build and fly the planes. It is the fault of humanity everywhere—humanity, which solves the secret of flight and then uses its new knowledge to make the world a more dangerous place than it was.

MORE WORK FOR CANADIANS

MR. E. W. BEATTY, PRESIDENT OF the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, says it is his organization's policy to have more and more of the refit work on its Pacific steamships done in Canadian plants. The amount, he adds, will increase as cost and time schedule conditions warrant.

This announcement is a welcome one. It has struck the average Canadian shipyard worker as strange that a company which is wholly Canadian—though, of course, its shares are held in other countries besides Canada—should give a good deal of its work to Oriental peoples.

There never was a time in the history of this Dominion when every hour of labor was as valuable to the Canadian workman as it is to-day. Mr. Beatty obviously recognizes this fact and he is to be commended for the announcement that his company intends to help to meet the problem of unemployment—which still is Canada's gravest problem.

AFFAIRS IN THE FREE STATE

fighting to prevent a tax sale of seized cattle the other day were suppressed at Cork by police and military re-enforcements of the De Valera government after a terrific battle, in which one farmer was killed and more than one hundred were wounded seriously enough to require medical aid.

The movement among the farmers of the south and the midlands of Ireland to withhold payments of land annuities and taxes has gained momentum and was said to be causing grave concern to the government. On June 30, 1932, President Eamon de Valera withheld the semi-annual payment of the Land Purchase Annuities—money owed to Great Britain by Irish tenant-purchasers on account of loans advanced to enable them to buy their holdings.

By way of reprisal, the British House of Commons almost unanimously empowered the British government to impose a tariff of up to 100 per cent on imports from the Irish Free State. With the British market virtually closed and being unable to dispose of their products, the Irish farmers contend that they are hard put to pay the annuities and taxes.

General Owen O'Duffy's United Ireland Party, known as the Blue Shirts, aimed a direct blow at the Irish Free State's economic war with Great Britain by adopting a resolution pledging refusal to pay annual land taxes so long as President de Valera continued the trade dispute.

Meanwhile, Dublin dispatches are reporting that efforts have been made during recent weeks to reopen negotiations between the De Valera government and Great Britain. For some time past, it was also said, there has been danger of a break between the younger Blue Shirt wing of the United Ireland Party, headed by General O'Duffy, and the old Constitutional wing, led by former President William Cosgrave.

Mrs. Henry T. Rainey, widow of the late Speaker of the House of Representatives, announces that she will not be a candidate for election to succeed her husband—thus reversing a tendency which had become more and more noticeable in recent years. In a great many cases, Congressmen who have been removed from public life by death have been succeeded by their widows; and in some instances this has simply reflected a wave of sentimental sympathy on the part of the voters. Such elections, one commentator points out, do small service to the cause of good government.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

BEATING THE LAW.
The St. Catharines Standard

How the law is beaten as told by a Kansas paper: A traveling man says he called the attention of a western Kansas hotel man that it was against the law to use roller towels. "I know it," said the landlord, "but that towel was up before the law passed and the law is not retroactive." The law has been in the books over twenty years.

AGAINST IT
The Border Cities Star

We are reminded of the little story concerning the late President Coolidge's visit to church on a certain Sunday when Mrs. Coolidge was unable to accompany him. On his return, Mrs. Coolidge asked him how he enjoyed the service. "Fine," replied the President who was noted for using no more words than necessary. "What was the subject?" his wife asked. "Sin," Mr. Coolidge replied. "Well, what did he have to say?" she persisted. "He was against it," Mr. Coolidge answered.

A THOUGHT

Loose Ends

This civilization doth make monsters of us all—for the summer is over and we are back to our old ways—we find we have no roads—a policeman's life is not an ignorant one.

By H. B. W.

BACK TO PRISON

WELL, AFTER a brief spasm of freedom and an invigorating period of barbarity I am back with my fellow slaves in civilization again. Unknown to you, I have been communicating lately with the public in this column from the veranda of our cabin at the lake, with the stub of a pencil, a few old sheets of paper, a family of squirrels running about my feet and the two children from next door constantly offering suggestions. And after a little previous time in the Cariboo, in the remote wilds beyond the end of the road, I am forced to the confession that our Island, after all, is best.

How melancholy, therefore, to realize that our Island summer is over, that the fall is really here at last! We have performed the last sad rites of summer up at our lake. Everybody has packed up and hauled the boat in for the winter and chopped a supply of wood for next spring and left his cabin to the mice. The great trek back to the wicked city is complete. Against our will and all our higher instincts, we find ourselves civilized men again.

How melancholy, therefore, to realize that our Island summer is over, that the fall is really here at last! We have performed the last sad rites of summer up at our lake. Everybody has packed up and hauled the boat in for the winter and chopped a supply of wood for next spring and left his cabin to the mice. The great trek back to the wicked city is complete. Against our will and all our higher instincts, we find ourselves civilized men again.

EVIL EFFECT

IT IS EASY to see, too, what an evil effect civilization has on the ordinary man. Up at our lake all summer he is the best of fellows, a kind neighbor, a friend to everybody, a constructive worker who tirelessly improves his beach, his wharf, his cottage and his woods. But bring him back to the city and at once he becomes a wolf, fighting his neighbors to the death in the fierce economic struggle of these times.

Yesterday I was yarning on our wharf with my friend, Arthur, who is a prominent figure at the bar of British Columbia. As we lay there on the wharf, practically naked so as to absorb as much as possible of the last summer sun, we talked of many things, of boats, of trees, of building cabins, of cutting wood, of fishing, of all the glories of the out-doors. We were perfectly at peace as we lay there, more or less naked, on the wharf, under the blue September sky. We were innocent of all guile and friendly to all the world. We felt like kings.

But when I met Arthur on the streets of Victoria to-day, immaculately clad and looking every inch a King's Counsel, he began to tell me how hard it was to squeeze money out of his clients, how broke he was, what he thought of the Bennett and Pattullo governments, and finally he asserted that the economic system was about to collapse. He left me, shaking his head sadly, but grimly determined to squeeze as much money out of the economic system and the public as possible while there was yet time.

I tell you, this civilization casts a blight over the sweetest spirits. If we could only keep the leaders of society, the prominent K.C.'s and statesmen lying on the wharf, more than half naked under the sun, the world might become fit to live in.

ROADS

YOU CANNOT come back from a holiday in British Columbia without a lively realization of the fact that our roads, judged by modern standards, are terrible, that they will have to be vastly improved if we are to make any money at all out of the tourist business. Not that I care much personally—I care drive with pleasure over a deer track and prefer it to the open highway where the world speeds by. But the tourist doesn't seem to have the instinct for bad roads because the poor fellow has never had an opportunity, in his great cities to the south, to learn the joy of the remote places. He insists on a good road or he stays home. Now that the tourist season is about over and there is no danger of discouraging anyone from coming here, it can be said safely that most of the roads, apart from the Island Highway and the Pacific Highway, are a disgrace to a civilized country.

Parts of the Fraser Canyon road are pretty good, due to the work of the unemployed camps largely, but after you leave the canyon you feel that your car has no tires. It took us five hours to do eighty miles on the Cariboo Road from the Hundred-Mile House south. After fourteen years of travel on that road, I have never known it to be so bad, and everybody says the same thing.

All over the interior the shout is about the condition of the roads, and everybody wonders what we got for the millions and millions of dollars we spent in the last ten years. I can tell you what we got—a mass of new roads all over the landscape and not one of them really finished and surfaced. We have built roads under all our governments to serve the political needs of local politicians. And to-day we find that instead of making a huge profit on our tourist industry we are losing money because more cars go out of the province than come in.

COPS

BEFORE YOU can join the Metropolitan Police Force in London, you must pass an examination in which the following were among the questions recently put to unfortunate candidates: Compare—Pacism and Communism. Describe a Diet written by Kipling, Conrad, Hardy or Wells. What three painters would a prospective policeman expect to find represented in an exhibition of British art and why? Describe the position, climate, present production and economic possibilities of Palestine or Poland or New Zealand. Describe briefly the appearance and habits of any two of the following wild animals: otter, badger, stoat, bat.

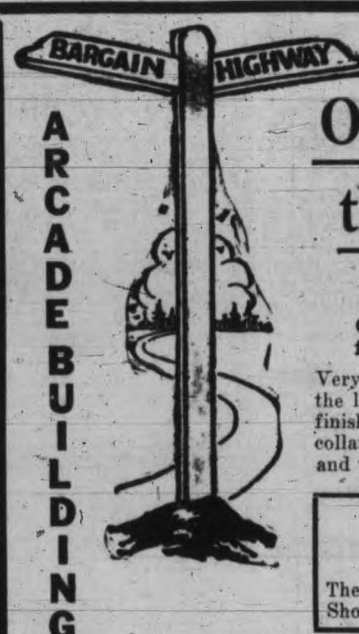

There were innumerable other questions, some much more difficult than that, and if you can't answer them, you can't become a London policeman. I just mention the fact so that you, who consider yourself educated and intelligent enough to read this newspaper, may feel properly ashamed and humiliated.

I started out to-day with a list of these questions, intending to put them to the first Victoria policeman I saw on the corner. I felt certain that in the intellectual atmosphere of Victoria a policeman would be sure to know more than a poor native of London. I was sure that any Victoria policeman could give a detailed account of any book by Kipling, Conrad, Hardy or Wells. I was confident that any local cop could give a working history of art or explain the workings of a Diesel engine and outline in detail the entire economic situation of Poland and Palestine. I had no doubt that he could give me the entire scientific low-down on the otter, the badger, the stoat and the bat.

But somehow, when I approached the young man in the blue uniform at the corner I lost my nerve. He gave me such a stern, sceptical look. I felt that if I were even to ask him what he thought about the economic position of Poland and Palestine he probably would arrest me as a dangerous maniac and, no doubt, if it could be proved that I had inquired, in broad daylight, at the corner of Douglas and Yates Streets, about the life habits of the stoat, I would be sent to an asylum.

But that is not to say that our

After reading "The Brass Check" it is not difficult to understand why the author is not accepted as a prophet "in his own country." Also, as Mr. Sinclair seems likely to be the next governor of California, and in any event will be prominently before the public for some months, many of your readers would for these reasons find the book interesting. Among those who have recognized Sinclair's literary eminence are Roman Rolland and Georg Brandes, and to prove that he is not entirely without honor, even in his own country, Luther Burbank, Louis Untermeyer, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes and Jack London.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELS

AFTER STORM
As always after storm, the shore is strewn with strange memories of the lashing waves. The brilliance of the slowly rising moon lights secrets torn away from ocean caves. And here the slim, bright body of a fish: through water flashing, once it must have been. As winged-swift, as love's most ardent wooer. Now all the Titan rage of elements is shrivelled to a whisper and a song: The breeze scarcely stir the leafy tents Of campfire trees, the gap waves dance Along the shore.

Only the broken treasures on the sands Show how the storm rent ocean with her hands.

UPTON SINCLAIR

To the Editor:—Recent Associated Press dispatches dealing with Upton Sinclair's nomination as Democratic candidate for the governorship of California are extremely interesting. Full appreciation of them would, however, be assisted by a perusal of Mr. Sinclair's book, "The Brass Check."

European critics consider Mr. Sinclair to be one of the greatest living American authors, but he is comparatively unknown in his own country and Canada. After reading "The Brass Check" it is not difficult to understand why the author is not accepted as a prophet "in his own country."

Also, as Mr. Sinclair seems likely to be the next governor of California, and in any event will be prominently before the public for some months, many of your readers would for these reasons find the book interesting.

Among those who have recognized Sinclair's literary eminence are Roman Rolland and Georg Brandes, and to prove that he is not entirely without honor, even in his own country, Luther Burbank, Louis Untermeyer, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes and Jack London.

MISSOURIAN

To the Editor:—The press in Switzerland, almost without exception, is fiercely opposing the entry of the Soviet Union into the League of Nations whose headquarters are in Switzerland.

The Neue Zuercher Zeitung justifies the attitude of the Swiss bourgeoisie by declaring that a small nation can be strong only by virtue of its moral ideas.

Great Britain, France, the United States, Japan, Italy and the Germany of Kaiserism have all recognized the Soviet Union and are apparently all devoid of "moral ideas." Only little Switzerland has them. For the moment, however, the question of the recognition of the Soviet Union by Switzerland is not up for discussion, but only the entrance of the Soviet Union into the League of Nations.

The Swiss government instructs its delegates to vote against the acceptance of the Soviet Union, and the Neue Zuercher Zeitung writes: "It is hardly likely that the vote of (Turn to Page 10, Col. 3.)"

WOMEN TO LOSE JOBS IN ITALY

Mussolini Reported Planning to Have Men Fill All Positions

Associated Press
Rome, Sept. 6.—Premier Benito Mussolini is reported planning to take all women workers out of Italy's industry.

Two reasons, it was reliably learned, influenced the Duce in his decision. Jobs, he holds, interfere with what he believes to be woman's primary duty, the building up of families and the increase of Italy's population. The positions women hold should be filled by men, thus decreasing unemployment and raising the morale of the people.

An editorial in Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo d'Italia of Milan, tended to confirm the report that he will move to eliminate women workers.

WOMAN HEADS SALVATION ARMY

Commander Evangeline Booth, who was elected head of the Salvation Army a few days ago, is shown above in London, with General Higgins, the retiring chief whom she succeeded. The new chief embodies much of the magnetic personality of her father, the late William Booth, despite the fact that she is nearly seventy years of age. Forty-seven delegates from all parts of the world gathered in London for the meeting at which Commander Evangeline Booth was chosen as head of the army. She has been in the United States for thirty years and has been head of the Salvation Army there.

Open Woman's Tomb Yearly

Body-snatching Days—Recalled by Strange Rite in English Town, Under 140-year-old Will

Canadian Press
Sutton, England, Sept. 6.—Following an annual practice of 140 years a family tomb has again been re-opened in this Surrey town. Exactly 141 years ago Mrs. Mary Gibson, whose parents were buried in a vault, made certain bequests to the rector and churchwardens of Sutton Parish Church on condition that the Gibson family vault should be opened and inspected each year in August. This year the assistant priest, Dr.

T. W. Crafo, entered the vault, inspected the four coffins, and offered up a short prayer. Then the vault, which was sealed in 1777, was sealed up for another year. In Mrs. Gibson's will there is an instruction that when the last member of the family is buried in the tomb the keys shall be thrown into the River Jordan. At the time of Mrs. Gibson's death body-snatchers were active; and it is generally thought that the reason for the yearly inspection is to make sure that the vault has not been tampered with. A legend which has long been associated with the tomb states that it is opened each year in order that a tomb which had made its home there might be fed, but there is no evidence to be found in support of this.

DESCRIBE WORK AMONG BHILS

Presbyterian Audience Hears Rev and Mrs. C. P. Young of India

Graphic pictures of mission work in India among the Bhils were sketched for the interested audience gathered at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church yesterday evening when Rev. C. P. Young and Mrs. Young of Mendha, India, were the speakers. The meeting was arranged in conjunction with the semi-annual session of the Victoria Presbyterian of the Presbyterian W.M.S. and Mrs. W. L. Clay, the vice-president, was in the chair.

Mrs. Young was the first speaker, taking her listeners in thought through Bombay and the country beyond. She described the Bhil mission work, the Bhil people, their customs, clothing, the general routine of life in the compound, as well as the work of the mission. She also described the work of the Bhil women workers, who were in the short talk. Splendid work was being done in the schools, she said, where a number of trained Christian Bhils are members of the staff. She made special reference to the Bhil women and mentioned the need for help for the Bhil women.

While the dispensary at the compound provided a great deal of emergency medical aid, there was special need for X-ray equipment and for accommodation for patients suffering from tuberculosis.

In the cine-kodak pictures and lantern slides, Rev. C. P. Young showed other phases of life in that part of India, great interest being taken in the pictures of farming activities, games, sports of all kinds, modes of transportation, etc.

Rev. J. S. Patterson led in prayer at the opening of the meeting. Mrs. Young sang a charming solo and Rev. James Hays gave the offertory prayer.

REPORTS PRESENTED
At the afternoon session the opening session of the Victoria W.M.S. executive read a most interesting and comprehensive report of the twentieth annual council executive meeting held in Montreal in June, and to which she was a delegate.

It was noted that while there had been a decrease in departments during the past year, the mission bands had made wonderful progress. The reason for the decrease was attributed to the "failure to catch the vision of missionary endeavor." A strong plea had been made for more workers in the foreign mission fields, especially in China and Manchuria.

Catholic Women Busy on Bazaar

Mrs. W. C. McManus presided at the September meeting of Victoria Catholic Women's League held yesterday evening in the Parish Hall, and at which a very large membership was present and several new members were cordially welcomed.

A standing vote of appreciation to Miss Harriet O'Brien, acting-diocesan president during the National Convention held in Victoria during July was enthusiastically passed. Mrs. McManus, as president of her subdivision, voiced the congratulations of the members upon Miss O'Brien's outstanding success in the role of convention hostess.

Rev. Father Albury, chaplain, was present during the meeting and contributed valuable suggestions to the plans under discussion for the annual bazaar to be held on December 4, 5 and 6. Provisional committees were chosen. It was decided to hold a social evening when the executive would be hostesses to the members of Victoria subdivision, the date to be announced later.

Reporting for hospital visiting during the summer months, Mrs. M. Delahunty for the jubilee, and Mrs. Cannon for St. Joseph's. Mrs. Pemberton will visit the Jubilee during the weeks preceding the bazaar, and Mrs. Dames will act as visitor to St. Joseph's.

Mrs. G. Roberts, treasurer, reported a satisfactory state of finances; Mrs. M. E. O'Neill, corresponding secretary, read a number of letters received during the holidays; Miss Madeline Gray accepted the recording secretary, replacing Miss MacKay, whose resignation was regretfully accepted, and whose fine services during the past year was acknowledged with thanks. Miss MacKay still holds the post of diocesan secretary. Acknowledgments of the prizes for Canadian History, presented by the Victoria subdivision for competition at St. Ann's Academy and St. Louis College, were received from Sister Superior of St. Ann's, and from Rev. Brother Ward, principal of St. Louis College. Winners at St. Ann's were: in grade 7, Miss Helen McDonald, and in grade 8, Miss June Byrom. At St. Louis College the prize was awarded to Bernard McElhin.

STIMULATE APPETITES BY SERVING FRUIT CUPS

By MARY E. DAGUE
Is there a slump in the family appetite about now? Try starting your summer dinners with fruit. Experiments have shown that fruit stimulates the desire for food, makes-lagging appetites peppy and speeds up digestion. Vitamins, food minerals and acids as well as the colorful appearance are aids in all this.

MELON CUP
Prepare balls of cantaloupe and watermelon and arrange in cocktail glasses. Pour over grenadine syrup and sprinkle with blackberries. Serve very cold.

CHILL melons thoroughly before cutting and then serve as soon as possible after cutting because they soon lose their delicate flavor if exposed to the air for any length of time.

WATERMELON COCKTAIL
Prepare balls of watermelon and put in cocktail glasses. Pour chilled ginger ale over them and serve at once.

WATERMELON APPETIZER
Prepare balls of watermelon and arrange on glass plates. Garnish with sprigs of mint and put a green maraschino cherry in the centre of the watermelon balls. Pour over some of the juice from the cherries and serve.

MELON MACEDOINE
Choose small cantaloupes and cut in halves, allowing one-half for each person to be served. Scoop out pulp in neat dice. Combine with watermelon balls and honeydew melon balls. Return to cantaloupe shells and pour over sherry to cover. Serve on a bed of chilled ice.

CUT chilled watermelon in inch slices. Cut these slices in small diamonds, trimming off all the white rim and green rind. Put four of these diamonds on each serving plate, putting points in the centre. Dust lightly with powdered sugar and pour over rum, using one teaspoon for each serving. Sprinkle with shaved ice and serve.

MONDAY'S MENU
Breakfast: Ripe plums, cereal, cream, sautéed eggplant, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Main dish macaroni salad, Boston brown bread and butter sandwiches, ginger ale cooler.
Dinner: Watermelon appetizer, broiled cubed steaks, new potatoes, cream sauce, buttered broccoli, curly endive with French dressing, made with fruit juices, sponge cake and ice cream sandwiches, milk, coffee.

GEN. SUTTON LOSES ISLAND

Mortgage Holders Get Final Foreclosure Order Against Chinese Adventurer

General F. A. "One Arm" Sutton, famed for his exploits in China, today had Fortland Island in the Gulf of Georgia taken away from him.

The taking away was done by an order of Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson of the Supreme Court issued to Roy Manser, counsel for Clowley Limited, a Victoria investment company.

When General Sutton came out of China some ten years ago he made known he was looking for some place in which to place his wealth and said he was going to settle in British Columbia. Someone told him one of the largest office buildings in Vancouver, other people sold him strings of racehorses, others nearly sold him a railroad, while one group in Victoria did sell him Fortland Island, half-way between Victoria and Vancouver. There he planned a great country estate, and there he actually did have some of his race horses.

However, the tide suddenly turned. The general left for other parts, and lawyers have since been busy over his holdings. Mr. Manser in moving for final foreclosure against the general today explained that he owned $15,835.90 on a mortgage on the island. It was explained that the general was last heard of in Harbin, where he had again gained a position of power with Oriental war lords after selling boat loads of coffins. The lawyers who had formerly represented him here failed to appear in court for him today.

Below, left and right, are Wallace Doyle Sharp, cultist, and James Miller, preacher, accused of hiding the boy from doctors while he suffered from a tubercular leg infection. It was only after a circuit judge warned that he would ask murder indictments against the boy's immediate relatives if he should die without medical attention, that the operation was permitted.

Father Taught Here In 1865

Mrs. Alice Michael of Ladysmith has written the Saanich School Board in answer to its appeal to get in touch with the oldest living pupil of Saanich schools for the opening of the new McKenzie Avenue School.

"Three years ago at the reunion at Craigflower," she writes, "there were three older than myself, but I do not know whether they are still living. My father, the late Thomas Russell, taught the school (Craigflower) from May, 1865, to July, 1866, and we lived at the schoolhouse. I was then five or six years old.

"McKenzie Avenue is named from my uncle, Kenneth McKenzie, whose estate adjoins the avenue, and part of it is still owned and occupied by one of his grandsons—Mr. Alex. Watson."

The letter was received with thanks and filed pending further information on the oldest pupils of Saanich.

When you look at the new season's fashion offerings you will be especially impressed with the fact that they manage to combine subtlety with simplicity plus a dash of sophistication—making them as stunning a collection or costumes as we have seen in many a year.

From the point of view of fashion, fall seems the most exciting of the seasons. After the casual sports costumes and ensembles that we have worn all summer, it is rather fun to get back into gleaming satins, soft velvets and light-weight wools.

Rather fun, too, to wear dark colors again, and to buy some new millinery. Suits always come into popularity at this time of the year. The first been subdivided into small suburban estates as done by Dr. Toimle, who at Braxford had obtained a perfect blending of city and country advantages.

Reeve William Crouch of Saanich spoke of the value of the development to the municipality as showing what could be done. He praised the manner in which the work had been carried out.

J. W. Spencer, an ex-president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the settlers on behalf of the business men of Victoria. He told of the advantage of such an organization as had been set up to secure quality products for the market.

FAIR SPACE ALL TAKEN

Late Entries For Exhibition Which Opens Monday Seek Outside Locations

This year's fair promises to be larger than any during recent seasons. A record number of entries in horse and cattle sections have been received and officials of the British Columbia Agricultural Association to-day were making every effort to allot outside space for exhibitors.

All available space has been taken up in the buildings and late comers are now vying with one another for choice locations in the grounds.

The fair will be officially opened on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Mr. J. H. Toimle, Minister of Agriculture. It is announced by Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins, president of the association.

Accompanying the Premier will be Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance; Hon. E. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture; Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands; Mayor Leeming, Hon. E. F. Toimle, members of the City Council and fair officials.

AMPLIFYING SYSTEM
The addresses will be carried throughout the grounds and to the various buildings by an amplification system.

All exhibitors were urged to-day by W. H. Measne to set up their displays as soon as possible and have everything in readiness for Monday.

The Midway will be in operation on Saturday at the same time as the race meet.

Files of the association revealed an exceptionally heavy entry in virtually all departments of the fair apart from the cattle and horse sections which have exceeded marks of last year.

into small holdings, explained the scientific basis upon which it had been estimated the production could be maintained on a small tract for the entire year. He predicted a great future for the Saanich Peninsula and the Fraser Valley.

H. M. Lewis spoke on behalf of the settlers and thanked the speakers for the welcomes they had extended. He told how most of them had come from east of the Rockies and how delighted they were with their new homes and the possibilities of the Saanich district.

Not all the settlers who have taken up land in the area were present yesterday. Those who were present and participated in the gathering were: C. F. Ennals, Bryan Walker, J. Wingfield, W. Enoch, A. C. Butler, J. A. Alexander, E. C. Rossiter, E. L. Beggs, H. M. Lewis, William Wetherpoon, Andrew Paul, E. J. Lea, A. H. McPherson, A. G. Hardy, George Swain, S. Brooker and J. P. Martin.

NEW HEAD OFFICE FOR IMPERIAL BANK

Imperial Bank of Canada will construct a new head office building at King and Bay Streets, Toronto, at a cost of something less than $1,000,000. It is officially announced. It is expected that the new building will be ready for occupancy in January, 1935.

It is stated that the new building is designed to serve the Imperial Bank's need office and main Toronto branch. The new structure will have 100 feet frontage on King Street and 100 feet on Bay Street and will be six stories in height. The main banking room with lofty ceilings, will have about three times the space of the present King Street and Bay Street branch. The basement will contain the latest type of strong room and safety deposit boxes and the bank's bond department.

The new building will be probably the first business building in Canada to be completely equipped for air conditioning both winter and summer.

"There is no doubt that there is a cumulative total of legitimate building needs," said A. E. Phillips, general manager, following a meeting of the directors. "When the commercial world begins to fill these needs the Imperial is doing its own account. It will be a still further sign that the depression is waning."

"What the Imperial Bank is doing," added Mr. Phillips, "is to provide their clients with an adequate head office which will serve the needs of the bank and its clients. We believe the new structure will add to the dignity and beauty of Toronto's growing number of fine buildings, but we have not sought to be pretentious."

Newspapers Are Seized On Trains At Borders

Canadian Press Correspondent Describes German-Austrian Anti-propaganda Activities at Boundaries

Following is fourth of a series of mailed articles by George Hampton, European Staff Correspondent of the Canadian Press, Berlin, Aug. 16.—"Zeitungen?"

Newspapers? A customs officer breezes through the train car to a waiting halt on the frontier between Austria and Czechoslovakia. His suspicious eye falls on a copy of the Vienna Reichspost lying on a seat. He seizes it, impounding it before the surprised passenger has time to question why.

The Austro-German frontier, and again, a halt. Again, "Zeitungen?" This time it is a paper brought from Praha. It too is seized and disappears. And so, on every train, day after day, the merry game proceeds. For in this battle of propaganda between Austrian Fascism and German Nationalism, the small voice of a contrary opinion must be suppressed.

On the two sides of the Austro-German frontier, the methods are much the same.

The language, in reverse, is almost identical. Austrian Fascists charge German Nazis with inspiring the murder of Dollfuss. German Nazis charge Austrian Fascists with being in the pay of Italy.

EXECUTIONER BURY
—re— an extract from the Nazi Angriff of Berlin. It is given as the report of a special correspondent in "These days the hangman cannot complain of lack of work. Death claims its victims from every stratum of the population: police, bank officials, mechanics, unemployed. Behind them stands the dark shadow of the Heimwehrman (Austrian Fascist). He was who drove the Austrian government into the policy of bend or break, why spread implacability and hatred among the people, who flogged them with cowhide whips and steel rods. To the real Austrian, the Heimwehrman is an alien. With foreign money in his pockets, he represents foreign interests. Of that, the best proof is his hostility towards people of his own race."

The Angriff correspondent charges the climax of brutality was reached during Heimwehr suppression of the recent rioting in Carinthia. There, he asserts, prisoners were bound together, neck to neck, with sharp wire. "When one felt he dragged the others down, so that the wires bored into the neck. In one case, the prisoners had to drag along an unconscious comrade, for the first were refused to release the wire which bound the half dead man to the others."

CHARGED WITH BRUTALITY
Nor does Austria lack similar information about the Nazis. Austrian National Front posters charge them with brutality, with inspiring the murder of Dollfuss. Stories of refugees from German concentration camps are given full play. "Afraid of the truth," heads a news item from Berlin, "an order to German railway books" "not to display foreign newspapers so prominently." A paragraph from Dollfuss leaves the reader to draw the conclusion that the Nazis are losing ground. The Vienna Reichspost prints a letter from an unnamed correspondent in Pary Sound, Ont., which declares the principle of nationalism gone mad, as interpreted by the Third Reich, means brutality and contempt for the "real rights of man."

LORD ILIFFE TALKS WITH ROOSEVELT

Associated Press

Hyde Park, N.Y., Sept. 6.—President Roosevelt in a unique questioning of Baron Iliffe, British publisher, at yesterday's regular newspaper conference, was informed that Great Britain recognizes the principle of collective bargaining as set forth in the much-discussed article 7A of the United States National Recovery Act.

The President, with a smile, turned to the distinguished visiting journalist and recalled a recent editorial in The London Times calling attention to the fact Great Britain long has recognized the principle of collective bargaining by labor and expressing surprise at the concern it has created in the United States.

"That is quite so," responded the slightly surprised Lord Iliffe. "Labor has responsible union systems in England. Ever since the general strike in 1926 the labor unions have recognized their responsibilities. Before that they played their own hands. They feel now they have got to consider the general good."

CANADA TOLD TO LEAVE DEBT

Canadian Press

Toronto, Sept. 6.—Edward F. Fienne, prominent Boston clothing merchant, declared on a visit here yesterday that Canada should not attempt to meet interest on its debts nor the principal, but should borrow more in the United States to finance expansion programmes. He said he was a fact-finder on a survey of the Dominion.

Canada, he said, could fund its debts and interest at low rates in the United States on a basis which would not call for a cent repayment for twenty years.

It was his belief that conservatism was doomed, continued the seventy-three-year-old millionaire, who strongly supported President Roosevelt's "New Deal."

There have been 902 big wars since 500 B.C. France was involved in 185 of these, Britain in 176, Russia in 151, and Austria in 131.

Holland has not been in one big war in the last century.

BISHOP BACK IN AIR AGAIN

Famous Wartime Flying Ace Takes to Air in Montreal After Long Absence

Montreal, Sept. 6.—The call of the clouds has once more gripped Canada's ranking wartime flying ace, Lieut.-Col. W. A. Bishop, V.C. After an absence of twelve years from active flying, he has decided to climb back into the cockpit. He is now taking instruction at the Montreal Light Airplane Club field preparatory to regaining a pilot's license.

Col. Bishop, however, is only going into flying again for personal reasons. He wants to be able to commute between Montreal and his summer home in Muskoka, Ont. Col. Bishop soon showed he was only a little bit rusty on flying technique. He went up first with an instructor, but within an hour was flying "solo."

Col. Bishop achieved an enviable record during the war, accounting for seventy-two German airplanes.

RUSSIA AND THE LEAGUE

Switzerland in the Council of the League of Nations will have any great significance in view of the fact that the council can accept new members with a two-thirds majority, and as it is extremely probable that the council will accept the Soviet Union as a member it might be possible to adopt the attitude that Switzerland would do better not to expose itself unnecessarily, and that the best thing to do would be to withhold its vote. However, such a "politique de la facilité" is not favored by the people at the moment, and as large sections of the Swiss people regard the acceptance of the Soviet Union into the League of Nations rather as a question of moral principle than a question of politics, they feel justified in expecting an attitude from the Swiss delegation in Geneva in accordance with the uncompromising rejection of the Bolshevik regime by the "moral feelings" of the Swiss people.

The same newspaper hurriedly adds: "It is unlikely that any political disadvantage will accrue to Switzerland as a result of this vote."

It is perfectly true that it is very unlikely that the League of Nations will remove its headquarters from Switzerland as a result of the obstinate attitude of the Swiss government. If there is no danger to the hotel and restaurant businesses as a consequence why should not Switzerland air its "moral principle?" That is an edifying morality and a still more edifying moral idea. The Swiss moralists are unconsciously mocking themselves.

It is probable our own Premier is inspired by the same sentiments, for it is mooted that Mr. Bennett, while in Geneva, intends to vote against the entry of the Soviet Union into the League. The opposition of the Conservative government under Mr. Bennett, is more devoted and inspired, more profound and consistent than any other group of imperialists in the world. There are, of course, many reasons of this. Britain is a world power embracing the largest empire it is ruled by the oldest and most experienced governing class, which one naturally expects to have the greatest sense of historical perspective, i.e., to be the least likely of all imperialist groups to forget for a moment the historical significance of the existence of the first break in world capitalism, the Soviet Republic.

It follows therefore that in return for Mr. Bennett's vote, in the affirmative, he may return to Canada, having justly conferred upon him, the noble title of Lord Matchbox.

F. A. GRAHAM.

C.C.F. CANDIDATE

To the Editor:—Several of your subscribers at Royal Oak will be grateful if you will print this letter. It has just come to our ears that the C.C.F. authorities intend to nominate as candidate for the Nanaimo constituency Mr. Lefebvre, who is one of the twelve, a Maritime Socialist and for many years a member of the Socialist party of Canada. Well, sir, we just won't stand for it or vote for him. The C.C.F. is a new movement and we want a candidate with fresh ideas, who has not already stood for election and been defeated. One with life and vigor and courage, who does not advocate a waiting policy, or put a love of propaganda before the need of the people. Last year in the provincial election we chose a candidate who filled all these conditions, and what did the C.C.F. executive do? They said: "This woman is not an old-timer experienced Socialist, but she has broken up the ground fine for us in Saanich, so now we'll put in our own man." Consequently many of us were disgusted we voted Liberal, hoping to get a square deal there. Well, we haven't got it yet and would like to vote C.C.F. as time goes by. The C.C.F. are going to do anything to save British Columbia. So far they seem content to play the waiting game, and are comfortable on their $1200 per annum, while the people who put them there starve.

"Wait," they say. "We must do things constitutionally." Let me warn them they can wait too long. I am not on relief yet and do not intend to wait until I am. If the C.C.F. is a people's movement, let them have some say in the matter of candidates. Many of us are confident in Saanich that had our candidate been allowed to stand, the C.C.F. would have got in out here. Do not repeat the mistake.

A man I was talking to on this matter said, "Oh, well, you should join a C.C.F. club and have a vote on it." Neither I nor my neighbors are joining any C.C.F. clubs which are nothing but cliques of unemployed concerned about nothing but getting a bit more relief.

I am not signing my name to this letter because last year when I wrote on this subject, I had three letters saying our candidate had too much religion, too much education, was too domineering, etc. All of which I contend is just what is needed in a person who will make any mark over at James Bay.

Hopkins, sir, you will forgive the length of this letter and see fit to publish it, as we are anxious for it to reach the eyes of the C.C.F. authorities in Victoria and Vancouver.

WILL HUNT BIG GAME IN B.C.

Several Parties Being Arranged to Leave Jasper Park This Week

Vancouver, Sept. 6.—The big game hunting season in the Rocky Mountains of Alberta and British Columbia opened this week and from indications it would appear that more big game hunters are planning trips into the Rockies this year than for a number of years past, according to officials of the passenger department of the Canadian National Railways.

Outfitters in Jasper National Park have booked a number of hunters for big game trips beyond the confines of the park. The same condition applies to outfitters in British Columbia, particularly along the Jasper-Prince Rupert line.

O. L. Kettering of Greensburg, Penna., with a party, starts in this week from Fort Graham in northern British Columbia for a big game hunting expedition in the northern Peace River country.

The hunting of elk will again be permitted in Alberta, but only by special license. The season is from October 1 to December 31. The Brazeau Country, on the eastern border of Jasper National Park is very popular and a number of hunters will go in there this season.

"Chicago Follies" Receive Praise

"The Chicago Follies," which will open a Victoria engagement at the Empire Theatre to-morrow evening, proved exceptionally popular in Seattle last week and in Vancouver early this week.

Of this performance the theatrical critic of The Vancouver Sun says, in part, "There is everything a show-goer looks for crammed into this programme."

"This stage show is the best of its kind seen in Vancouver for a long time. About twenty-five well-known stars are included in the cast, and there is everything from slapstick comedy to classical ballroom adagio dancing."

"Chas. Davies, popular colored comic, is the featured star, and is the leader of the troupe. Charming twins dance beautifully together. A splendid adagio team does tricks that are not seen every day."

"The orchestra deserves a fair share of commendation. It is music of the best. A man and a woman perform while balancing on two huge glittering balls."

Starts FRIDAY

Now and Forever

A Paramount Picture Directed by Henry Hathaway with STANDING CHARLOTTE GRANVILLE

Shirley Temple, latest child screen find, will appear to-morrow at the Dominion Theatre in "Now and Forever." It is one of Shirley's finest pictures to date, and was widely acclaimed by theatrical critics in eastern cities.

Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard have two of the leads in this entertaining picture.

The story, warm in its human qualities and appeal, deals with a reckless scapegrace who brings his little daughter into his adventurous and erratic life. The climax is brought on by the theft of a jeweled necklace at the home of a wealthy woman in Paris, while Cooper, Shirley Temple, and Miss Lombard are guests. The thief and his broken-hearted and inconsolable over her loss of faith in him.

The stirring denouement comes as the abandoned father proves himself ready to chance discovery, disgrace, and even death to win back the faith and love of his daughter.

Star Guy Strang, Charlotte Granville and Henry Kolker are in the principal supporting roles.

Tim McCoy At The Columbia

Tim McCoy, fast action Columbia screen star, in his latest starring production, "Hell Bent For Love," now at the Columbia Theatre, demonstrates that fighting fire with fire, in the case of the gangster element, would be highly effective.

McCoy is cast as a highway patrol officer who, when he serves a warrant on a cabaret singer, incurs the hatred of the underworld. He is "framed" into disgrace and suspension from the force.

A "floating" banquet was enjoyed every day by members of the company filming scenes for "Treasure Island" near Catalina Island. A large launch brought out such delicacies as fried chicken, pastry and liquid refreshments, which were served to Wallace Beery, Jackie Cooper and others whose stomachs could stand a rolling ship.

"Treasure Island" is now at the Capitol Theatre.

There is no record of the production of wheat in Canada in 1880 but in 1880 2,365,554 acres on 464,023 farms produced 32,350,452 bushels, whereas in 1930 24,868,000 acres on 728,664 farms produced 426,972,000 bushels. Thus in fifty years, the number of farms increased only about 57 per cent while the number of acres increased about 1,000 per cent.

GIVES TALK ON LATIN AMERICA

H. Chisholm Tells Rotarians of Countries in Southern Hemisphere

Latin America is a land of great contrasts, and a person would always be confronted by the unexpected, declared Hugh A. Chisholm of Havana in speaking to members of the Rotary Club at luncheon to-day at the Empress Hotel. In that land were horrible poisonous jungles, beautiful cities and huts of indescribable filth; fish that eat man and enormous arid mountains, the speaker said. Mr. Chisholm mentioned the first visits by the Spaniards to Latin America. They went not to govern, but to exploit and carry back to Spain loot of gold and silver. Some remained to colonize, which they did with the co-operation of other nations. Eventually, however, Spain was driven out of its last stronghold in Latin America. It is quite natural, therefore, Mr. Chisholm said, for despots to arise and seize the power in many of the countries of Latin America. Revolution undoubtedly, he stated, was one of the worst legacies left to Latin America by Spain.

ATMOSPHERE CLEARED

"Empty stomachs in Latin America foment revolutions, just as empty stomachs foment elections in other parts of the world," Mr. Chisholm said. "But I believe the revolutions of the last few years down there have cleared the atmosphere. The younger generation seems to have learned its lesson. The new republics are groping towards a new order."

Costa Rica, Mr. Chisholm said, was as fine a country as one could care to visit. There has been no serious trouble there for fifty years. Uruguay, while still capitalistic, had the most advanced social legislation in the world to-day. Venezuela was one of the few countries in the world that had no national debt. Last year the last foreign loan was paid off. There were wonderful roads in that country, Mr. Chisholm stated. Argentina and Chile were really the best countries in Latin America, said Mr. Chisholm. They were fine, red blooded countries, where anything could be grown, he said. Brazil was on its way to becoming one of the leading industrial countries of the world. Mexico was one of the most interesting countries in Latin America, and its art, literature and education were new and startling.

ROTARY VITAL FACTOR

Mr. Chisholm referred to the great things being done by Rotary in Latin America. There were 212 clubs, with a membership of 6,000 at present. Twenty-five new clubs had been formed in the last two years, and he predicted that seventy-five more would be formed in the next two years.

"Rotary is making history there," Mr. Chisholm said. "It has become a vital factor in Latin America. What it has accomplished in those countries alone justifies its existence." He strongly urged Victoria Rotarians to attend the annual conference of Rotary International in Mexico City next year.

J. Morris Hart, president of the club, who presided, introduced Mr. Chisholm and also moved the vote of thanks.

NEWS IN BRIEF

C. H. Colgrove of Nixon Creek, B.C., has been appointed a Justice of the Peace.

Directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will resume meetings Monday with a luncheon in Spencer's dining-room.

The sum of $45 was reported stolen from his dwelling by R. Cliff, 3234 Oak Street, to the city police yesterday evening. The thief had apparently entered through a front window, the police report stated.

The first fall term meeting of the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Chamber of Commerce, President Frank Partridge will preside.

Severe injuries were sustained by Russell Cockell, Inverness Dairy, Shelbourne Street, late yesterday afternoon when he fell from his horse and was thrown onto his back handle. The injured man was removed to the Jubilee Hospital for treatment.

Fledding guilty to a charge of driving to the common danger on Hillside Avenue on Sunday evening, Arthur P. Jones was fined $20 in the City Police Court to-day. The case arose from a crash at the Hillside and Quadra Street intersection.

First reports of the Dominion Tourist certifying campaign, as indicated by word with inquiries forwarded to the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau from Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio.

J. G. Oglesby, former Lieutenant-Governor of Illinois and now a member of the advisory board of the NRA in his state, has been visiting Victoria from Elkhart, Ill. He left the city yesterday with Mrs. Oglesby for Seattle en route home.

A meeting of the Real Estate Board of Victoria will be held at Spencer's dining-room to-morrow afternoon at 12:30. Mayor Leeming will address the board on "Future Civic Taxation." This is the first meeting of the fall season and members are asked to attend.

J. J. Cowie, director of fisheries at Ottawa and secretary of the Biological Board of Canada, arrived in the city to-day and from the east. He is at the Empress Hotel with Major J. A. Motherwell, superintendent of fisheries for British Columbia. Mr. Cowie said he was here on routine business.

Appointment of Robert Taylor Sr. as Justice of the Peace, B.C., at Victoria, for that city, stipendiary magistrate for the county of Yale, and magistrate of the small debts courts, was announced at the Parliament Buildings to-day. Mr. Taylor is a former Captain Stephenson, whose appointment in the three positions has been rescinded.

The following donations were received by F. Landsberg, local treasurer Save the Children Fund, for the month of August, 1934: Anonymous $5, E. H. $2, Mrs. E. J. $2, Mrs. Macklem $5, Miss Emma Saunders $2, Miss A. L. Saunders $2, Miss A. L. Pofford $10, A. Friend $2.75; total donations $48.75. Further donations will be accepted by Mr. Landsberg at 1008 Broad Street.

D. B. Blair, retired British Civil Service commissioner, of London, is visiting the city on his way back home from New Zealand. He believed Adolf Hitler will continue to rule in Germany for a long time, basing his views on observations made last year on a visit to Germany. The Nazi leader, he says, is popular with the youth of Germany who claim Hitler has restored the self-respect of the German people and united the nation.

The government's educational survey revision committee held a three-hour session this morning in private, discussing the various proposals and suggestions made at meetings of the large general committee during the last month. After a luncheon adjournment it resumed this afternoon. The committee includes Mayor David Leeming; Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P.; Mrs. Paul Smith, M.P.P.; Herbert Anscombe, M.P.P.; Professor H. P. Angus; R. P. Blaney and J. P. Carr, with Mr. B. B. King as technical adviser.

The price of admission fares for the concert-meeting of the Victoria Welsh Society, to be held in the S.O.E. Hall, Broad Street, to-morrow night, is 10c. Those taking part in the concert will be: Frank Merryfield, magician; A. Jackman, vocalist; Miss Phyllis Price, pianist; Miss Jessie Pollock, Scottish dancer; Ray Hunt and Miss Frances Merryfield, tap dancers; W. Anderson, violinist; B. Holmes, concertina; and B. Brown, Stanley James and Ernest Impet, comedians. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

The delightful series of evenings with the stars which have proved so popular this year will conclude on Monday next with the most interesting addresses of this whole series. This will be delivered by Charles Hartley, M.A., and the title of his address is "How Did the Solar System Come About?" The meeting will start at 8 o'clock and will be held in the laboratory at the Victoria College. The Victoria Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada invites all interested to attend this last meeting of the summer course. President H. Boyd Bryer will have an interesting announcement regarding the series of lectures which have been arranged for the winter season, to commence on September 21 at the Y.W.C.A. premises, Blanshard Street.

Four lawyers argued all this morning before Mr. Justice H. B. Roberts of the Supreme Court over another point that has arisen in the administration of the estate of Stephen Jones. Involving the ownership of a block of securities which had been registered in the name of a son, Howard, but which Mr. Jones just before his death had caused to be registered in his own name. Howard Jones, the son, is now moving to have his title to the shares recognized. Similar blocks of securities had been registered in the names of the other children, but in the case the securities had not been registered in the father's name just before his death. The lawyers who conducted to-day's argument were: A. D. Macfarlane, K.C., for Howard Jones; H. H. Shandley, for the trustees of the Stephen Jones estate; H. G. Lawrence, K.C., for Elizabeth Margaret Jones, the widow; Stephen Jones and Frances Jones, adult children; and Cleve G. White, for D. O. Cameron, guardian of the infant children, Mildred and Margaret. The judge reserved his decision.

BOY FISHERMEN

Here is Melbourne Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Little, 893 Swan Street, with the seventeen- and a half-pound salmon he caught at Brentwood last month. Melbourne, who is celebrating his fifteenth birthday to-day, was so keen on his fishing that he did not want to go home after spending two weeks at Brentwood. He had a good man to coach him in his fishing, as he was staying with Constable Cummings of the Saanich police force. Constable Cummings did pretty good work in those two weeks as he caught a thirty fish weighing 276 pounds. Any boy or girl who have landed fish this year may have had pictures taken of them, are invited to send them to the News Editor of The Times for publication in the "Boy Fishermen Column."

BUILDING UP BY $18,451

All Municipalities But Oak Bay Show Increases This Year Over 1933

Building in Greater Victoria up to the end of August was $18,451 ahead of the corresponding figures last year, increases in Victoria, Saanich and Esquimalt more than offsetting a drop of $20,000 in the eight months figures for Oak Bay. The combined totals for the first two-thirds of the current year amounted to $489,966. Saanich showed the largest increase, the eight months figures for 1934 being $1,673, against $1,037,000 for the same period last year. To the end of August, the city had issued 257 permits, which included 114 dwellings with a total value of $144,570, against 227 permits, including 102 dwellings worth $111,083, last year. This increase was maintained in spite of a slight drop during August. Last month thirty-two permits, including twelve for homes valued at $116,279, set the total value of constructions in the municipality at $24,968. During August last year thirty permits were issued with a combined value of $28,945. Those included seventeen dwellings worth $18,835.

Victoria, top ranking district in construction, to the end of August, had a building total of $17,258, including twenty-five dwellings, one apartment and one duplex. Five of these dwellings were erected in August and helped to swell that month's total to $26,626, or a monthly total in 1934 of $23,654, which also included five dwellings. Last year to the end of August the city's building figures stood at $17,615 with thirty dwellings landed.

An exceptional drop in August accounted largely for Oak Bay's eight months deficit. Last month building totals amounted to only $9,465, against $30,360 for the same month last year. Forty-two dwellings, with an aggregate value of $116,279, contributed largely to the 1934 eight months' total of $127,120. Last year, at the end of August forty dwellings had been constructed in that municipality at a value of $128,600, being the major factor in the construction total of $130,835. Esquimalt showed a substantial rise, the figures for two-thirds of the current year amounting to $23,365, including nine dwellings, against $21,372 for the first eight months of 1933. The eight months figures were $18,550 against $140 for the same month last year.

Amateur Sailors Needed Blankets

Jack Elliott, genial chief clerk at the Empress Hotel, and Mondie Christopher, who alternates at the cigar and souvenir shop in the hotel, are holidaying in a fifteen-foot speedboat out there in the gulf. They left the city Tuesday with everything apparently shipshape and seaworthy, and after chugging around the coastline a bit, they spent the night at Young Island, Cape Pasa. The boat was in the water for three nights, however, and felt the cold. It was not too late to rectify the little oversight, Mondie came ashore at New Haven and telephoned his sking friend, Howard Jones, the son, now moving to have his title to the shares recognized. Similar blocks of securities had been registered in the names of the other children, but in the case the securities had not been registered in the father's name just before his death. The lawyers who conducted to-day's argument were: A. D. Macfarlane, K.C., for Howard Jones; H. H. Shandley, for the trustees of the Stephen Jones estate; H. G. Lawrence, K.C., for Elizabeth Margaret Jones, the widow; Stephen Jones and Frances Jones, adult children; and Cleve G. White, for D. O. Cameron, guardian of the infant children, Mildred and Margaret. The judge reserved his decision.

The funeral of Charles Henry Vesey who passed away at the Jubilee Hospital on Tuesday will be held to-morrow afternoon, the cortege leaving Carter's Funeral Home at 2:15. At 2:30 service will be held at St. Saviour's Church, Victoria West, by Rev. E. M. Willis. Interment will be in Colwood Burial Park.

U.S. Tourists Flock to Canada in Greater Numbers Than When Their Country Was Dry

A gratifying feature of this year's successful travel season from the United States to Canada has been the proof that Canada has been able to maintain its tourist business on its own attractions and not as an oasis for persons from a dry country, stated O. A. Seymour, general tourist agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway with headquarters at Montreal. Mr. Seymour, who is also a member of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus, is making his first visit to the coast in six years in the course of a tour to obtain general information on tourist trade for U.S. tourists, but the rate of exchange is also against them. Recalling that some predicted that the tourist trade of Canada would be wiped when the United States abandoned prohibition, Mr. Seymour said travel business recorded through the Montreal office this summer had exceeded the most sanguine expectations.

This was in spite of the fact that not only is liquor no longer a Canadian attraction for U.S. tourists, but the rate of exchange is also against them. Inquiries for fishing and hunting trips had increased fifty per cent. Banff and Lake Louise had done big business and all bungalow camps had been filled during the summer. Inquiries for fishing and hunting trips for the east were up in the majority of those for the more expensive trips to British Columbia had dropped off during the depression years. These inquiries, however, were now building up rapidly.

Trains travelling west had been filled. Mr. Seymour said he could not speak with authority as he had not been fishing. That is a fact, however, to find it was the great travel year since 1929.

"Fishing," said Mr. Seymour, appears to be the best bet in bidding for tourists. "Baiting" is another setting out with a definite objective and is mainly for people with the most money. A fisherman can travel and see different places without a lot of preparation and fish if he feels inclined.

"It has been shown," proceeded Mr. Seymour, "that 6,000,000 sportsmen in the United States have fishing licenses. Eighty per cent of the people there looking for sport are looking for fishing. That is a fertile field from which to appeal for tourist business."

B.C. TRAVEL
It was at first problematical to what extent Canada could hold its tourist realm of which the physical restored liquor, Mr. Seymour said, when discussing British Columbia travel with George I. Warren, Victoria tourist and publicity bureau commissioner, who pointed out there had been a 40 per cent increase on Vancouver Island. This year, however, had probably suffered more than the island from the fact that there was no longer a place where liquor laws held an appeal for visitors from the United States.

Victoria, top ranking district in construction, to the end of August, had a building total of $17,258, including twenty-five dwellings, one apartment and one duplex. Five of these dwellings were erected in August and helped to swell that month's total to $26,626, or a monthly total in 1934 of $23,654, which also included five dwellings. PLANS CRANES FOR U.S. NAVY

John Hayes Got Thrill Here When He Discovered C.P.R. Boats Were From Clyde

John Hayes, designing engineer, United States dockyards, who is in Victoria to-day from Washington, D.C., said at the Empress Hotel this morning that he "got a thrill when he saw the Canadian Pacific boats in the harbor—were built on the Clyde."

Mr. Hayes is a naturalized American, who hails from Newcastle-on-Tyne and the fact that he comes from England, influenced him to bring his wife to Victoria on a holiday trip.

He is identified chiefly with the designing and construction of cranes for the dockyards of the United States Navy. Although he has never seen it, Mr. Hayes knows all about the Canadian government drydock at Esquimalt, the second largest in the world. All the features of the big drydock have been designed by him and other notable drydockers in other parts of the world, are pigeon-holed in Mr. Hayes' office at Washington.

He has designed cranes for most of Uncle Sam's dockyards, including Philadelphia, Boston, and Charleston on the Atlantic coast, and San Diego and Mare Island on the Pacific.

CHANGE IS DUE SAYS SPEAKER

End of Present Conditions Approaching, British-Israelite Claims

The end of present conditions was rapidly approaching, J. S. Eason, lecturer and author from Vancouver, told a large audience at the British Israel meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night.

"People suppose that we are in the midst of chaos," he commented. "It is not chaos but the removing of old evils in order to make room for the Kingdom of God."

Beyond the utmost realm which scientists can explore they are coming to recognize that there is a spiritual realm of which the physical universe is but the shell. But this spiritual realm cannot be revealed by science, said Mr. Eason. The Bible says our light and our darkness, that there are two spiritual forces at the divine and the satanic. The divine constructs and creates the satanic destroys. But in the divine realm of the spiritual there is no end almost at an end.

The Great Pyramid was appointed to be a witness for these present times and to the Israel-British race, the speaker stated.

He sketched diagrams to support his claim that since 1914 the race had been undergoing a stress designed by the forces of evil to exterminate it. The first horizontal low passage in the Pyramid, he said, symbolized the physical war which by divine intervention came to a close in 1918. The second low passage, containing a short space for recuperation, symbolized the present economic war, and according to the symbols it would end in 1936. At present both church and state in the English-speaking world had become ineffective in their efforts to purify and stabilize the world. These were the Two Witnesses spoken of in the Book of Revelation. But this state of virtual decline and death would soon give place to resurrection and in the vigor of rebirth the race in its national and its spiritual aspects would develop its functions in peace and righteousness on this earth.

A solo by Mr. Jackson, accompanied by Miss Moore, which was much appreciated, brought the evening to a close.

Mr. Eason has also been lecturing this week at Royal Oak, Sidney and Sooke, and to-night will speak in Brentwood Hall. To-morrow evening he will address a meeting in Sooke Hall.

Would Abolish School Boards

Manufacturers Call For Complete Shakeup in Education Administration

Calling for a reduction in the cost of education, abolition of the numerous school board units in favor of central control by the province, standardization of teachers' salaries throughout the province, and a variety of other radical changes in the system of education in British Columbia, the B.C. branch of the "Canadian Manufacturers' Association" to-day had submitted to the educational finance survey committee a lengthy brief covering its proposals.

The manufacturers uphold the contention of municipal authorities that the provincial government should be responsible for educational costs and that schools should be regarded as a province-wide matter rather than a local affair.

In this connection it was pointed out the province contributed roughly $3,000,000 out of the total school bill of $8,700,000 in 1933. The government therefore would require an extra $5,700,000 if it took over the entire cost of the schools.

SPICIAL SCHOOL LEVY
To meet this it was proposed a special school levy be raised within municipalities on a head basis of school population equivalent to 50 per cent of the average cost per pupil. This would relieve municipal budgets of their school burden.

An increase in the gross income tax is suggested as a means of increasing the revenue to meet the added cost to the provincial treasury. A bond of control, preferably serving in an honorary capacity is proposed as the unit for controlling the educational policy of the province through the permanent officials of the department.

In place of the 871 school districts now existing, greater efficiency could be achieved by establishing school districts of equal size and boundaries would be based on population and topography rather than by municipal boundaries. This suggestion contemplates doing away with school boards and placing each district under a director, responsible to the board in Victoria.

When To Stop
Dealing with school fees it suggests education should be provided only up to the limit of a pupil's ability to assimilate it. By a system of eliminating examinations it could be proved at what period a pupil should cease to attend school.

The conclusion the brief emphasizes the need for economy in education. This could not be achieved without loss of efficiency with the present unwieldy organization.

The time has arrived for a complete revision of the financial relations between the provincial government and the municipal authorities on the question of school finance, and steps should be taken at the same time to overhaul the system of administration and institute a plan which will be simpler, more efficient and more economical in operation, the statement adds.

RECALLS GREAT EARTHQUAKE

Sir Chas. Delme Radcliffe Tells Overseas League of Messina Holocaust

A vivid description of the terrible Messina earthquake disaster of December 28, 1908, which caused a loss of life amounting to about 150,000 was given by Sir Charles Delme Radcliffe before members and friends of the Overseas League yesterday afternoon. The gathering was held in Spencer's dining-room.

Sir Charles was at the British Embassy in Rome at the time of the tragedy and arrived at the city the next evening. In this connection he compared the efficacy of present-day communications by wireless with that of the time of the disaster, when the delay added immeasurably to the suffering of the victims. The speaker recalled that it was days before the British and other ships in the Mediterranean knew of the disaster, but immediately word reached them they hastened to assist, helping to restore order in the stricken area and remove the injured.

Mrs. E. Hodgins, honorary corresponding secretary, called attention to the "Seven Seas" Ball and auction, to be held in Vernon House, London, November, by the parent society, in aid of the Premises Fund, which has as its object the reconstruction of the club site in St. James Street, London, and the extending of the club's activities. The members of the Victoria branch were asked to make contributions, linens, woollens and lace, pottery, brassware, baskets, leather goods, home produce, handkerchiefs, original costumes.

The pleasure of the afternoon was enhanced by the singing of John Ware who, accompanied at the piano by Miss Eadie Friend, sang "Water Boy" and "Wilfred Sanderson's 'Harlequin'."

Victoria Cricket Team Named For Big Match Wednesday

THE SPINNING WARRIOR

ON SEPTEMBER 15, off Newport, L.I., a million dollars' worth of the latest word in yachts will slip through the sea in a race for a dinky cup, worth only $25, but over which $30,000,000 has been spent. On that day T. O. M. Sopwith will attempt to take from the United States the America's Cup, a trophy originally won by the American, a yacht that challenged England's supremacy of the sea in her own waters back in 1851, and best of Britain's boats. In fourteen years since the U.S. representative has taken the wind out of the sails of the Britishers every time.

This trip, however, signs point to an English victory. This has been a British year. British sports followers have seen their native son, Henry Cotton, win the British open golf championship. Fred Perry annex the Wimbledon tennis singles and help now down the United States Davis Cup squad, and Dorothy Round repel Helen Jacobs in the Wimbledon women's singles.

Now they're shouting that T. O. M. already is down in the book as the gent. who'll cop the cup classic and cart back to England the mug that has been reposing in the trophy room of the New York Yacht Club ever since it was put up for competition.

The America's Cup is said to be the oldest international trophy competed for by the United States and England. They've even lost track of the name of the English sportsman who suggested to John C. Stevens, commodore of the New York Yacht Club in 1850 that the Americans send over one of those pilot boats about which they boasted and see how it stacks up against the foremost canvas carter of Old Albion.

Commodore Stevens formed a syndicate in New York, and a craft was built, and named after an English shipbuilder, but an American citizen, to build a boat.

Stevens' final project was a schooner-rigged craft, 122 feet in length, and rated at 170 tons. She was christened America and was off for England under the guidance of Capt. Dick Brown, and under her own sail.

Once on the other side, a challenge was issued to meet any or all yachts in English waters. Commodore Stevens finally entered the America in a race around the Isle of Wight against seventeen British craft.

The United States entry walked off with that fifty-three-mile contest, beating its closest competitor over the finish line by eight minutes. Thus was born the international yachting competition for the America's Cup.

America was sold to an Irish yachtsman shortly after it won the Isle of Wight race, but it eventually found its way into the U.S. navy. During the Civil War in the United States she served as a Confederate blockade runner. After that she passed into Gen. Benjamin Butler's family and finally became the property of Butler Ames. For years she has been kept at Annapolis.

The fourteen series have involved thirty-six races. United States yachts have captured thirty-three of the thirty-six.

In 1870, the first race after the America's victory in 1851, the British yacht, Cambria, sailed against the New York Yacht Club fleet and finished eighth, while the American craft, Magic, won. The following year the Columbia won two and lost one to the British "Lion", and the Sappho defeated Lavinia in the only tie.

In 1878, Madeline defeated the Canadian Countess of Dufferin, a boat from the Dominion that had taken up the "I" of England.

In 1881 the Mischief and Gracie defeated the Canadian Atlanta. In 1885 the Puritan won two from the British Galates.

In 1887 the Volunteer took a pair from the British Thistle. In 1893, Vigilant won three from the British Valkyrie. In 1895 Defender won two from British Valkyrie III.

In 1899, there entered the most picturesque figure in the history of yachting to take over the search for victory against America's monopoly of the cup. He was the late Sir Thomas Lipton, the genial Irishman, who was beloved by the world for his sportsmanship.

Lipton tried five times to lift the mug, spending more than $5,000,000 in construction and sailing off five Shamrock challengers, only to bow in defeat to the American craft Columbia, twice, Reliance, Resolute and Enterprise.

The last race was held in 1930, and saw Lipton making his last bid with his Shamrock V. The Enterprise mowed down his boat. Lipton's victories and his friends said that those defeats broke his heart and brought on the ailment that some time after resulted in his death.

With Lipton gone, England was left a low for a cup challenger. But another Sir Tom has arrived. Sopwith is the last name.

The eastern team compiled a total of 274 all out. Calgary and district were batting at the call of time with 128 and two wickets in hand.

Percy Payne Will Lead Strong Squad Against Tourists

Veterans and Young Blood Included in Eleven For Engagement With Eastern Canadians

WILL BE DAY LONG MATCH

A wiry little campaigner, veteran of nearly two score years of play, will lead Victoria's picked eleven on to the field against the touring eastern Canadian team in what promises to be the highlight of the city's cricket season at Maedonald Park next Wednesday. He is Percy Payne, perennial head of the local cricket fraternity. And his cup of joy will be all the sweeter for the inclusion of his two sons, Jack and George, on the line-up.

The team, announced to-day, follows: Percy Payne, five C's, captain. Arthur Darcus, unattached. Eric Quinston, five C's. George Wilkinson, Victoria. H. A. "Giddy" Goward, Victoria. Jack Payne, five C's. George Payne, five C's. Bert Edwards, Victoria. Jack Bryden, Inco. Les Gibbons, Albion.

STARTS AT 10 O'CLOCK

The match is scheduled to start at 10 o'clock in the morning and will continue through the day, with luncheon and tea intervals, until 6 o'clock in the evening, when stumps will be drawn. "Dad" Wenman will be umpire, and Jesse Longfield, scorer.

STRONG TEAM

The Victorians have particularly good batting strength lined up and are well supplied with fast, medium and googly bowlers who should give the visitors more than a passing worry in the encounter. Youths and veterans are well sprinkled through the list.

Percy Payne, Wenman, Darcus, Quinston, Wilkinson, and Goward are old timers, while the young Payne brothers, Jack Bryden and Les Gibbons will be participating in one of their biggest tests so far.

Owing to a mistake, tickets which have already been sold by the committee are being recalled for resale at half their original price.

A particularly large crowd is expected to put on an exceptionally fine exhibition against the local eleven which is regarded as particularly strong for the engagement.

Winnipeg, Sept. 6.—The Dominion's closing session here, yesterday, its closing session here, yesterday, voted to confine junior players to those under twenty-one years of age when registration data arrives.

Previously, no age limit for junior soccer was in effect. The meeting, however, believed the time had come for alteration of the open junior circuits and the age limit in future will be enforced.

Delegates spoke in favor of the British Columbia proposal to have championship play-downs at a later date, but left final decision with the incoming council. The suggestion made to the council was to have the play-downs start a month later than at present.

The question of use of substitutes was also left with the incoming council, without recommendation. The council was asked to deal with the proposed tour of an Australian team next year.

JIMMY AIMS FULFILLMENT OF HIS VOW

Vancouver Fighter Aims to Pay Back Barney Ross For Wrecking of His Well-laid Plans Last May; Had Aimed to Retire as Undeclared Champion

New York, Sept. 6.—Jimmy McLarnin goes to war to-night to attempt the fulfillment of a vow.

There will be four determination, backing up his irrefutable courage.

And backing up the determination will be that something which has caused men to build empires, caused others to tear them down—love.

It's a tale for O'Herry to tell. In the justice he could do it, it's a tale that would cause every reader of it to entreat his or her deity that the purposeful Vancouver youth be given the strength and the good-fortune to outfight Barney Ross to-night.

These are but the simple facts: The night of May 28 last, after Ross outpaced and out-tricked McLarnin to win a split-decision and the Canadian's welterweight boxing championship, Jimmy made an earnest vow that he would wipe out the defeat.

WON AFTER TOIL

The title he had lost had been ten years in the winning—years of sweating ring-toil through which Jimmy progressed from a hard-working, poorly-paid preliminary boy up to the leadership of his class. And he had been stripped of his honor in the first defence.

It wasn't any wonder his eyes were filled with tears as he left the ring a beaten man that night. It was easy to understand why he vowed there and then, through punch-bruised lips, that he would pay back the man who had wrecked his championship.

But there was more than that causing Jimmy's heart to throb. There was the wrecking of the plans the serious-minded fighter had made for his father and his mother, for the girl of his choice and for himself.

There was a quick trip back to Ireland in the wake of Mr. and Mrs. McLarnin, and for the "apple of their eye," Jimmy's dad sat at the ringside that night. His mother waited anxiously out in the crowd, ready to leave at any moment to join the male heads of the household in New York and board a boat for a vacation in the "old sod."

That holiday had been talked about for months.

PLANNED TO WED

And, current rumor had it, on their return Jimmy and the pretty Vancouver girl who is his bride-to-be would go to the altar.

Those were the cherished plans that were defeated, along with Jimmy's.

They were defeated, some said, because McLarnin had retired as an unbeaten champion, when he married. Others held it was because Jimmy didn't agree with the one confidence man who came to look over the better man that night. Jimmy contended, then as now, that he deserved no worse than a draw.

At any rate, he postponed everything else to press for a return fight with the young Chicago Hebrew. He landed it and to-night Jimmy's hopes for the "long-looked-for" vacation for his parents, the plans of his college and his ride into the ring on his broad shoulders.

It would seem safe to surmise, that the hopes of those who admire well-placed determination go with him.

There is a suspicion among the veteran observers, and Ross concurs, that the long ring-wars have dulled McLarnin's punching power, however as well as slowing his legs and loosening his chin a bit. But if the dynamite is still there, primed against the night of the prize ring's greatest little men.

Sure that McLarnin will make him crack the fight and will lie in wait for him with a cocked right-hand, Barney has promised to make that the issue. He intends to swarm over the Canadian from the start, punching so fast and so steadily that Jimmy will never get his sights really drawn fine on his heavy artillery.

Victory for McLarnin would bear out two steadily rising precedents such as boxing never before has known. Since the Madison Square Garden Bowl was built for the second Sharkey-Schmeling match, no champion has defended his title successfully there. On top of that the last ten welterweight title-holders, from Pete Latzo down, all have failed in their first championship defence.

With Ross already resting here, McLarnin planned to drive down from his Orangeburg, N.Y., training camp in time for the weighing in at 1 o'clock, E.S.T. The main bout was scheduled to start about 9 o'clock, E.S.T. (6 o'clock Victoria time).

Perry-Wilde To Meet Canadians

Montreal, Sept. 6.—The visit of Fred Perry and Frank Wilde, British tennis stars, and a number of United States players, has been postponed until Tuesday, officials of the Forum announced to-day. Perry and other tennis stars will play against Marcel Rainville, diminutive Canadian champion. Laird Watt, Davis Cup team member and a number of other prominent Canadians.

Holder of Automobile Speed Mark to Seek New Record at Daytona in January

London, Sept. 6.—Sir Malcolm Campbell, Britain's auto speed king, disclosed at a luncheon yesterday that his plans were about complete to make another assault on his own world automobile speed mark at Daytona Beach, Fla., in January. It was there he set the present standard of 232.16 miles an hour a year and a half ago. Since then he has remodelled the Bluebird, his racing car.

His goal is a speed of 300 miles an hour, five miles a minute.

Sir Malcolm amused the gathering with a report of a conversation he had with John D. Rockefeller Sr., on his last visit to Florida in 1933.

Sir Malcolm said that during a chat with the retired oil magnate he disclosed that his racing car burned almost three gallons of gasoline a minute.

"My boy," he quoted John D. as saying, "run your car night and day."

Rugby Meeting Billed Tuesday

The Victoria Rugby Union will hold its organization meeting for the 1934-35 season next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Colonist board room.

Every available stall at the Willows and "quite a number at Colwood" will be occupied when the Victoria racing season gets under way at the Oak Bay course Saturday for a fourteen-day session.

Over 300 horses are assured for the meeting, and it is quite probable that the number will actually be closer to the 350 mark when the field gets away in the opening event.

Ever since the Longacres meeting at Renton, Washington, closed Labor Day, local officials have been besieged by horsemen who raced there throughout the summer months for a recuperation at the Willows for the forthcoming events, but in each and every instance they were met with a point blank refusal.

"We are unable to take care of the Vancouver Island and Lower Mainland contingent at the Oak Bay course now," Harry Marand declared to-day. He explained that applications for more than 400 thoroughbreds had been received from Vancouver and that even after refusing some of the weaker runners, several large stables are being shipped direct to Colwood, from where the horses will be trucked over to the Willows and placed in receiving barns which have been specially erected.

Never at any time in history has the outlook for a successful season in Victoria been brighter. With racing concluded at Seattle and Vancouver, large delegations are expected from both these centres at the opening event.

The average calibre of the thoroughbred is also considerably better than in recent years, and as practically every stable of note that competed on the mainland is coming, some new track records are expected. Post time for the opening event is 2:30 o'clock.

New York Giants And Detroit Win

Continue on Way Toward
Major Baseball Pennants
With Victories Over
Chicago and Philadelphia,
Respectively; Dizzy Dean
Wins 24th Game

The 1934 major baseball pennant races appeared to-day to have been reduced to matters of time—and a very long time at that—for the New York Giants and Detroit Tigers.

Starting long stands on their home grounds, the two league leaders recorded a victory apiece yesterday, the Giants bowling over one of their leading rivals, Chicago Cubs, 5 to 1, and each triumph meant a step nearer to pennant land.

While the Giants were reducing Chicago to the status of a third-place club and maintaining their seven-game margin over St. Louis Cardinals, the Tigers poked out a 4 to 2 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics and a very long time at that—for the New York Giants and Detroit Tigers.

The Cards, meanwhile, conquered Brooklyn 2 to 1 on Dizzy Dean's three-hit flinging and home runs by Jim Collins and Bill Delaney to go into second place. Dean won his twenty-fourth mound victory, while Collins tied Mel Ott for the league home run lead at thirty-two.

BOWE WINS ANOTHER
The Tigers played the revenge match for all it was worth when Schoolboy Rowe, whose sixteen game winning streak was ended by the A's and Johnny Marcum last week, came back to beat Marcum after seven straight triumphs.

Cleveland Indians opened their third-place duel with Boston with an 11 to 2 triumph. Hal Trosky smashed in six runs, with his thirty-first home run—a single. The St. Louis Browns shook last year's champions, the Washington Senators, loose from their mathematical chance at the pennant by winning 6 to 4.

The Phillies beat the Cincinnati Reds 1 to 0 and turned back a Cincinnati threat to climb out of the National League cellar. Pittsburgh's Pirates eluded out an 8 to 2 decision over Boston.

"Dutch" Gainer Joins Maroons

Calgary, Sept. 6.—Norman "Dutch" Gainer, mainstay of the Calgary Tigers in the Northwest Professional Hockey League last winter, will don the uniform of the Montreal Maroons this season, according to Lloyd Turner, Tiger owner.

Gainer will report to the Maroons about October 10. He is now in hospital recovering from an operation for varicose veins, but expects to be in good shape by the start of the season.

CHURCHMEN TAKE CUP

Five C's Down Victoria in
Cricket Match to Gain
Berger Trophy

A clever bowling performance by N. Smith and a good batting stand by N. Wilkinson, who put up 33 before being caught by Reg Wenman, helped Five C's to continue their undefeated course through the Wednesday Cricket League's Berger Cup series and assured the churchmen of that trophy as they defeated Victoria by 32 runs at Beacon Hill yesterday. Next week's game between Hudson's Bay and Victoria will have no bearing on the final standings.

Pearce contributed a useful 20 to the Five C's total, while several others were also in double figures. Smith took six wickets for 42 runs in eleven overs, while Hughes gained three for 38 in twelve.

Reg Wenman started well for Victoria, scoring 27 before he was run out. He and Pearce shared the bowling laurels with three wickets apiece.

VISITOR GETS FINE FISHING

M. Heft, Montreal, Lands
Five Big Salmon on Outing
at Brentwood

Another booster for the fine fishing available in waters around Victoria was made yesterday when M. Heft, Montreal, who is visiting the city for a few days on business, went out to Brentwood with Dick Whittington of Dick's Dry Goods store and A. E. Alexander of Foster's Fur Store, and succeeded in landing five big spring salmon in less than three hours.

On returning from the outing Mr. Heft was enthusiastic over his experience. "Just as soon as I can see my way clear to live in Victoria, nothing in the world will stop me from taking up residence here," he said. "I think this is the most marvelous spot in the Dominion and I never realized one could spend such a happy time on a fishing trip."

Mr. Heft has traveled all over the Dominion but yesterday was one of the finest outings he has ever enjoyed he said.

Doug McGary Wins Shoot at Nanaimo

Nanaimo, Sept. 6.—Nanaimo Gun Club held its last shoot of the season, recently, which was participated in by shooters from various parts of the island and mainland. True Oliver, Ladner, was high gun with 98 out of a possible 100, and Doug McGary, Victoria, was second with 97.

McGary also won the club championship cup with 40 out of a possible 50.

PEARCE TOOK RACE IN WALK

Toronto, Sept. 6.—The master boatman from Australia, giant Bobby Pearce, turned back the challenge of black-haired Bill Miller, Philadelphia, for his world professional sculling title here yesterday evening, beating the former United States amateur champion by fifteen lengths in a three-mile duel off the Canadian National Exhibition waterfront.

To whip the doughtiest foe man that ever attempted to break Pearce's stainless record of triumphs, Bobby rowed himself into virtual exhaustion, but he left his challenger far behind after the Philadelphia had made a great battle of it for a mile and a half. At the finish, Pearce was so tired he slumped forward in his boat. Miller was comparatively fresh.

The champion's time of 19 minutes 52.2 seconds was slower than his time eleven days ago against Eric Phelps of England, in a qualifying heat for yesterday's final. It was nearly a minute slower than the course record he set in taking the title from Ted Phelps, British ace and brother of Eric, a year ago.

TOUGH RACE
But withal, this was a harder race for the mighty king of oarsmen than any since he defeated Miller two years ago at Los Angeles for the Olympic singles championship, for half the distance the Australian was unable to shake his American rival. His powerful but twenty-six strokes to the minute gait sent him ahead, but it did not break the game heart of Miller.

Miller's stubborn resistance to the most devastating twenty-six strokes in the sculling world faded only at the end of the second one-mile lap.

Pearce's victory netted the champion a handsome prize of $1,000, since the 1937 British Empire Games, $5,000. Miller, an amateur until he signed with C.N.E. officials, race Pearce this summer, collected $1,000.

Advance to Final of Van- couver Senior League Play-offs After Thrilling 11 to 9 Victory; Dave Gray and Joe Dailey on Mound For Fifteen Innings

Vancouver, Sept. 6.—Arrow Transfer took a day off from the ball park to-day after a marathon battle with Vancouver Athletic Club here yesterday evening which broke three play-off records and sent the Transfermen into the final series of the Vancouver Senior Baseball League play-offs.

The win also brought Dave Gray, pitching schoolmaster for the Arrows, revenge for a previous defeat at the hands of the Vacs in a twenty-two-inning contest, the longest on record in senior amateur baseball here.

Arrows won 11 to 9 after twenty innings to take the semi-final series. Four games to two, in the longest play-off game ever played here.

A total of forty-three hits were collected by the teams, twenty-five by Arrows, for another new mark, and seventeen errors were chalked up against the two squads, ten by Vacs, for the third record.

The next ten innings were won by Gray and Dailey with the win and Joe Dailey with the loss.

WORK FIFTEEN INNINGS
Both Gray and Dailey went in in the fifth inning.

In a scheduled league game earlier in the season the two hurlers battled for twenty-two innings before Vacs won to give Dailey the decision.

Each team used two hurlers during the first four innings.

Arrows were on the short end of a 7 to 4 score going into the fifth when the Transfermen scored a trio of counters to tie the score.

Gray was credited with the win and Joe Dailey with the loss.

Both teams scored twice in the sixth, and Arrows took the game and the series in the twentieth, when Babe Ben's amazing double to centre field scored two men who had singled.

British Star Defeats Marin

Player

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 6.—Fred Perry appears to be poised for another year as men's singles tennis champion of United States.

Although the British holder of the title has not yet had an opportunity or occasion to unsheathe the lightning of his strokes, he is easily the cream of the thirty-two survivors in the third round of the current fifty-third tournament.

Perry lives and loves tennis. Because he hasn't been able to get even satisfactory workouts in the tournament, he leaves the stadium court after his matches and plays with a friend on an outside court. Yesterday he defeated Marin Buxby, Texas, 6-3, 6-1, 6-4.

"I've got to keep my game sharp," he explained to-day. "I like to continue playing right after a match is finished."

The sparkling Briton declines to make any forecast about his chances of repeating.

To Perry, all of his challengers look alike, and he has no special fear of Roderick Menzel, the towering Czechoslovakian who is making his first appearance in the championship.

The stellar contest of the third round brought together Gregory S. Langin, twice former indoor title holder, and the giant Menzel, with the outcome considered a toss up.

Yesterday William Allison, Austin, Texas, ranked second in the United States, and Bryan M. "Bity" Grant, the tiny lion-tamer from Atlanta, were extended to five sets before winning from Dr. Eugene McCauliff.

Three Horses In Dead Heat Finish

Chantilly, France, Sept. 6.—A rarity in racing occurred here yesterday when three horses ran a dead heat for first place in the 1,800-metre handicap.

The three horses were Jean Stern's Tranche Montagne, Jacques's Evremonde and Madame C. Lefevre's Delight. The owners split the purse of 15,000 francs. Tranche Montagne paid 47 to 10, Evremonde 45 to 10, and Delight 65 to 10.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a friend, a man around fifty, who is married and has nearly grown children, but who has fallen in love lately with a woman whom he met by chance somewhere. This woman wants my friend to help her divorce her husband, and for him to get a divorce from his wife, and marry her. Do you think my friend has any chance of happiness with a woman who, first, while married, accepted his attentions, knowing he had a family; second, poured out her grievances against her husband to him, saying he was jealous, suspicious and didn't provide for her, etc.; third, accepted money and clothing from him, even going with him to buy undergarments; fourth, carrying on a secret correspondence with him, and meeting him clandestinely?

Is that the type of woman to pin your faith to?

My friend thinks a lot of my opinion and I will risk butting in and give him a good talking if you so advise.

OLD BACHELOR.

Answer—I certainly do advise you to try to save your friend from this predatory lady, if you can. I think that we are altogether too mealy-mouthed about such matters, and that when we see our friends about to make fools of themselves and wreck their lives it is just as much our duty to head a rescue party and try to save them as it would be to save them from some physical danger.

The woman you describe has neither courage nor honor nor heart nor delicacy of feeling. No married woman who has a love affair with a married man has any real principle. No woman who would break up a home, who would take a husband away from his wife and half-orphan children, has any heart. Such a woman is a curse to her husband, and if your friend is foolish enough to marry her, he will bring down the punishment he deserves on himself for having proved a traitor to his wife and children.

I have small pity for any man who is weak enough to let a woman cajole and flatter him into forgetting his duty to his family and his honor as a man. He really isn't worth anybody taking the trouble to save from his folly, except for his children's sake, for it is they who have to pay the final price of his wrong-doing.

There is only this to be said in such a man's excuse: That when many men are around fifty they go through a silly age in which, for a time, they seem to take leave of their senses, and which is the open season in which any vamp can get them who wants them. Its most pronounced symptoms are a sudden boredom with domesticity; a yearning for red ties and Klansy Kut Klothes; a craving for cabarets and jazz, an illusion that they are much younger than their years, and a delusion that their wives don't understand them.

In this dazed condition they wander away from home, and the first flapper who will dance with them, and who needs a sugar papa; or the first married woman craving pink crepe de Chine lingerie, who rolls her eyes at them and tells them a piteous story about a cruel husband, can get them. And by the time they are jolted awake by a divorce they have wrecked their lives, and are a laughing stock for the community.

Try, and see if you cannot make your friend realize what an idiotic, as well as wicked thing, he is doing before it is too late.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a perfect brunette, and am engaged to a young man who is a brunette, too. People have told us that two brunettes should never marry. What is wrong about it?

Answer—Nothing. Whole nations of brunettes marry each other with the happiest results. The color of people's eyes and hair and skin has nothing to do with whether they will be congenial life-mates or not. It's the temper and the disposition and the character of the man or woman who marry that makes marriage a success or a failure, not whether he or she is blond or brunette.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a widow sixty years old and live with my daughter, though I have other children. My daughter and her husband want to break up housekeeping and board, but I don't think that they have a right to do this, because, if they did, I would have to go and live with my other children, and that would not be home to me.

Don't you think that my daughter owes it to me to do the way that I would be the most comfortable?

MOTHER.

Answer—If you were poor and sick, it would be your daughter's duty to provide you with a comfortable place to stay, but inasmuch as you have other children with whom you can live, I do not see that it is incumbent on her to maintain a house just for you because you want to live in a certain place.

That is nothing but rank selfishness on your part, and shows that you have no consideration for your daughter. Your daughter has to think of her husband's welfare and his happiness even before yours.

The world is full of women of sixty who have settled themselves down to be burdens on their children. They are disturbing elements in their children's homes; they are miserable and fretful and whining themselves, and they would be happy and contented if they would get out and go to work and be independent.

Let your daughter go to boarding if she wants to, and go out and make your own home. And then you can have it where you want it.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a young married man. Have a pretty wife and love her dearly. Nice baby, comfortable home, everything all right, except that I also have a mother-in-law who persists in living with us, although she has a living husband and four sons, all married. She spends her time finding fault with me and pointing out my weaknesses to my wife. She ruins my home and makes life miserable. What shall I do?

DISAPPOINTED NED.

Answer—Ask her to leave. It is no part of your obligation as a husband to live with your mother-in-law, and you are foolish to do so.

DOROTHY DIX.

Uncle Wiggily and the Silly Swan

By HOWARD H. GARIS

Floating on Wreck Pond, which was a sort of little lake near the seashore beach where Uncle Wiggily was vacationing, were a number of white birds named swans. They had long necks, broad wings and large tails. The swans could stand on their heads in the water of Wreck Pond. At least they seemed to stand on their heads when they dipped their long necks beneath the surface, stuck their tails up in the air and held themselves in this position by wiggling their webbed feet with which they swam.

The swans put their heads and necks beneath the water, all the way down to the bottom of the pond, in places where it wasn't too deep, and in their beaks the big birds pulled up gobs of slimy, green weed. You wouldn't like to eat that, but the swans did. And they also liked to eat grass on the shores of the pond. For chunks of bread the boys and girls threw to them. The children threw the bread on the top of the water and the swans rushed to get the pieces before they should get too wet.

Sometimes, if a chunk of bread was too hard and dry, the swans would let it soak in the water before eating it.

SWANS HAVE GOOD TIME

"You swans seem to have a very good time here on Wreck Pond," said Uncle Wiggily as he hopped along shore one morning and saw the big white birds floating about like ships, some eating grass, some preening their feathers and some watching their little ones learn to swim and stand on their heads.

"Yes, it is nice," said one mother swan, spreading her wings.

"Except when we are worried," said another mother swan who had three little grey swans to look after. Little swans have grey feathers. It isn't until they grow quite large that they change to white.

"What are you worried about?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Perhaps I could be of some help."

"Thank you," hopped Mrs. Swan, "but I fear not. You would need to know how to swim to cure my worry and I don't believe you can."

"No, I can't swim," admitted Uncle Wiggily. "But please tell me why you are worried."

"It's about Billy," was the answer. "Billy what?" asked the rabbit gentleman. "That's the name of one of my little swan boys," said the mother swan. "His father and I call him Billy because that's just what he is. He wants to swim down to the end of the pond where the sea and the tide come in and go out. It isn't so bad, swimming near the inlet when the tide is coming in. Then Billy only floated on Wreck Pond."

"But," went Mrs. Swan, "if Billy swims in the inlet when the tide is going out, he is likely to be carried away to sea, and that's a big worry which would tumble him over and over and drown him."

"Why don't you tell Billy Swan not to swim near the inlet when the tide is going out?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"We have. His father and I have warned him a dozen times," hopped Mrs. Swan. "But Billy thinks he is a strong swimmer. He thinks he can swim stronger than the tide. Oh, dear! There he goes now! Look!"

Uncle Wiggily looked and saw a small swan paddling toward the place where the ocean and the pond met. There was a strong current. The water of the pond was flowing out to sea.

"Come back! Come back!" hopped Mother Swan. "Come back, Billy!"

ALMOST TOO LATE

Almost too late, Billy tried to mind. He felt the current gripping his paddling feet and carrying him away. He tried to swim but he couldn't. He was carried away to sea. The tide was too strong for him.

"Oh, poor Billy will be carried out to sea!" cried his mother.

"I'll try to do something," shouted Uncle Wiggily. "I'll find a piece of seaweed rope that some of my bunions had made when they put up a camp tent. Running along the shore of the inlet, Mr. Longears knows the end of the seaweed rope to Billy, who caught it in his beak."

"Hold tight and I'll pull you out!" said the rabbit.

Billy could not answer, for if he had opened his mouth he would have been pulled under the water and lost.

"Don't you ever swim near the inlet again when the tide is going out!" she shouted.

"I never will!" promised the little swan.

"If you keep your promise we won't call you Billy any more," said his mother.

"And if the paper bag doesn't drop the dozen of eggs and make the sidewalk look like an oasis, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the road runner."

ALASKA TRIPS ARE FINISHED

Ss. Prince Rupert Reaches
Vancouver; Old-timers of North Are Passengers

Vancouver, Sept. 6.—"Most decidedly a very successful season," was the comment of L. B. (Les) Jones, general agent for the Canadian National Steamships at Skagway, Alaska, who returned to Vancouver yesterday morning by the Ss. Prince Rupert, which completed its last Alaska sailing of the season, bringing in 200 passengers.

An old-timer in the north himself, Mr. Jones reported the passing of some notable characters in Alaska this year. Among them were Joe Brooks, who helped build the White Pass trail, and Lee Hudson, town marshal of Skagway, Brooks, who returned to California some years ago, returned to Alaska this year intending to write a book on the historic trail over which he ran a 300-horse packtrain. He died on the trail at White Pass City, happy to pass on in the country that he helped pioneer.

On board the Rupert was Jack Learmont, one-time Royal Northwest Mounted policeman who settled in Dawson in 1902, and became owner of Hotel Dawson. After many years in the north country he is retiring. Having sold the hotel he will travel before making his home in a more temperate climate. Just now he is bound for New York to visit his sister.

FROM LONDON

Another passenger arriving by the Prince Rupert was Oliver Baring, member of the famous London banking house, which is headed by Lord Revelstoke. Accompanied by Mrs. Baring he made the round trip to Alaska and took a side trip inland from Skagway. They were charmed with their northern visit and are keenly looking forward to a visit at Banff and Lake Louise on their way across Canada to Montreal, where they will take steamer for their home in England.

Mr. Baring was actively connected with the famous old banking house until he retired just after the war.

Aorangi In Today After Fast Voyage

GREAT SEAS WRECK PIER

Long Beach, Cal., Sept. 6.—The Pacific Ocean, on one of its wildest rampages in years in which huge rollers were breaking 1,000 feet off shore, late yesterday caused the collapse of the Pine Avenue pier with a loss estimated by city officials at $100,000.

Roy Miller, life guard captain, and three members of his crew, stationed near the end of the pier, narrowly escaped death as the structure collapsed, littering the beach with debris. The four rushed to safety as they felt the pier give way. Thousands of tons of debris were thrown into the water, and were pounding against the piling beneath the adjacent Rainbow Pier on which a number of concessions are located. City officials feared the Rainbow Pier also might collapse.

The government weather bureau and meteorologists were unable to explain the reason for the heavy surf, which centered along the coast at Long Beach and extended as far south as Newport Beach. A heavy gulf was being run for the last two or three weeks, and recently caused heavy damage at Newport Beach and Balboa where a number of beach houses were undermined.

NEW SHIPS FOR AUSTRALIA RUN

Australia and New Zealand Interests Will Protect Shipping Against Competitors.

Wellington, N.Z., Sept. 6.—A vessel designed to outstrip all foreign competing vessels on the service between Australia and New Zealand will be built in Britain following joint action by the dominions.

Premier G. W. Forbes of New Zealand has announced the Government of Australia and New Zealand will consult in regard to safeguarding their mutual shipping interests in the face of increasing foreign competition.

Coincident with this the Union Steamship Company announced today it would call immediately for tenders in Britain for construction of a fast steamer definitely designed to outrank present competitors.

Docked Early This Afternoon
From Australia and
Honolulu; Brought in Fair
List of Passengers and Heavy General Cargo

Running nearly twenty-four hours ahead of schedule, the Canadian-Australasian motorship Aorangi reached Victoria at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu. Capt. T. V. Hill was on the bridge and fine weather between Honolulu and this port enabled his ship to make such excellent time. The big liner remained here two hours before proceeding to Vancouver.

There were 125 passengers aboard the Aorangi this voyage, many of them being destined to England, via Canada. A group of travelers en route to the United States disembarked here and will leave for Seattle this afternoon by the Ss. Princess Marguerite.

The Aorangi brought in a large parcel of general cargo this voyage, including nearly 100 tons for discharge at this port. She also had much mail, that destined to the United States being taken off here.

Among those on board the Aorangi to-day were the members of the World Council of Youth party, headed by Raymond A. Cromley, of Los Angeles, returning from Honolulu; R. M. Bartley, general manager of the Auckland Electric Power Board, en route to Montreal; and J. O. Curtis and H. Kay, en route to Springfield, Mass., to commence a four-year course at M.C.A. there.

Also on board were Mrs. J. M. Griffin, returning to her home in Montreal; Frank Hambridge, a prominent business man of Sydney, J. Ross Orr, Australian representative of the British Harbors Committee of London, and Ronald Sharp, going to the University of Toronto to take a post-graduate course in dentistry, accompanied by Mrs. Sharp.

LARGE CARGO

The Aorangi had among her valuable cargo 40,000 boxes of Australian raisins and currants, 1,000 tons in all, which brought the total cargo aboard the liner up to 2,450 tons. The raisin shipment established a record to British Columbia ports by being the largest single shipment of that commodity.

The arrival of this important commodity is generally considered as an indication of the public endeavor of Western Canadian people to reciprocate for Australia's purchases from British Columbia. Under the Empire Trade Agreement, the Dominion of Canada last year. These purchases included 183,000,000 feet of lumber, 18,000,000 pounds of canned salmon, also largely from this province; 60,000 tons of newspaper, also largely from British Columbia; 1,500,000 yards of cotton and 9,548 automobiles.

SAILS NEXT WEDNESDAY

The Aorangi will remain in Vancouver until next Wednesday when she will start her return voyage to Australia, passing through Victoria in the late afternoon.

Capt. T. V. Hill is taking the place on this ship of Capt. J. F. Spring, Brown, the regular master of the Aorangi, who is on shore leave at his home in Sydney. Capt. Hill is regularly master of the Ss. Niagara.

NOEL COWARD SHIP WRECKED

Famous Author Loses Belongings When Yacht Mairi Wrecked in Mediterranean

He Rousse, Corsica, Sept. 6.—Noel Coward, actor and playwright, was stranded on the wrecking of the yacht Mairi, which he had chartered for a cruise.

Mr. Coward was on the shore when a sudden storm Saturday drove the little vessel against rocks. As the cabin flooded, members of the crew sprang into the swirling water and fought their way to shore.

All Mr. Coward's clothing, his money and his papers were on the yacht. He walked along the coast for twenty miles, finally reaching this community. He persuaded a hotel proprietor to cable to his friends in London.

Mr. Coward's London associates sent him money, planned to leave here to-day for Paris.

Dramatic Touch To 1893 Series

United States Yacht Vigilant Beat Lord Dunsraven's Valkyrie for the America's Cup

New York, Sept. 6.—A master-minding helmsman backed up by a courageous crew in a lumpy, running sea, lent a dramatic touch to the America's Cup race of 1933 between Lord Dunsraven's British challenger, Valkyrie, and the defending Vigilant, owned by a New York syndicate.

The series was run on a three-out-of-five basis and Vigilant had won the first two races by wide margins. The third race was sailed on Friday, October 13. The sky was overcast and the sea rough.

Valkyrie got the jump at the start, sailing heading into the teeth of the blow. Valkyrie was two minutes ahead when rounded the mark boat and headed for home.

Nat Herreshoff, who designed and built the Defender at his own expense, the race slightly to the Vigilant. He resorted to daring tactics.

As the yacht bounded along down the coast, the crew climbed the mast and working on their lofty perch with the assistance of the remainder of the crew below, set a spruce canvas, as taut as a drumhead—in fifteen minutes!

On the other hand, Valkyrie met trouble. The crew slightly tore the sprinker while setting it.

Vigilant finally won the race by forty seconds.

Columbia University Professor Measures Endeavour and Rainbow

Bristol, R.I., Sept. 6.—Whenever the British decide to have another go at the historic America's Cup, the New York Yacht Club calls in Professor Harry W. Webb of Columbia University to give the contenders a final and official inspection before they go to the starting line.

The professor was in Bristol to-day, measuring in the defender, Endeavour, and the challenger, Rainbow. He measured the British challenger, Tom Sopwith's Endeavour, when she sailed out here after her arrival from the other side of the world. He measured the rules. It is his duty to determine that both defender and challenger measure into the "J" class, or a seventy-six rating.

When he was asked to-day, Endeavour, back in 1914, it was a job that required from five days to a week. Now with apparatus he has developed, he can do it in half.

He balances up the draft, load, waterline length, freeboard, quarter beam and a few other details, including sail area, very important ones, and is able to determine if the specifications have been strictly observed. If they have not he applies a penalty—where it hurts—reduction in sail area.

Tells of Visit to Derelict Baychimo

Visitors From North, in Seattle, Say There Were
No Furs Aboard Vessel;
No One Has Seen "Ghost Ship" This Summer

Seattle, Sept. 6.—One of the few who have been aboard the "ghost ship" Baychimo, wanderer of the Arctic wastes, since it was caught in the ice pack a few years ago, Robert Brower, was in Seattle over the week-end after a two weeks' airplane flight from Point Barrow with his sister, Jennie, and his father, Charles D. Brower, owner of the Cape Smyth Reindeer and Trading Company.

Brower, who owns 4,000 reindeer and who, with his brother, traps during the Arctic winters in the bleak wastes surrounding Point Barrow, had not been "outside" since he went to school ten years ago in San Francisco.

ON TOP OF FLOE

With his sister, who graduated from the University of California last spring, he sat in his room at the Frye Hotel and told about the Baychimo, Hudson's Bay Company trading ship which has been sighted drifting with the ice pack many times since its crew was forced to leave it, but which has seldom been boarded.

"We saw the ship about twelve miles off Barrow two summers ago," Brower said to-day. "The ship had a skin boat and was out to her top on top of an ice floe, unharmed. She was in perfect condition, engines properly oiled, which had been broken when her crew tried to get her out of the ice before they left her."

NO FURS ABOARD

Brower dispelled the rumor that the ship had thousands of dollars of furs aboard.

"There weren't any furs, although there were some other supplies," he said. "Several of us went out to her skin boat and wandered around her. The next day she had disappeared. I think she was seen near Walrus Bay last summer."

The Browns chartered a plane to fly from Barrow to Anchorage to get a ship south. They landed at Anchorage. Bad weather held the plane there for five days, and since they missed the regular boat to Seattle, they will fly to Seattle by plane. They will fly to San Francisco Sunday.
